BORDEN GIRL FOUND IN BOSTON

Daughter of Millionaire Located in Private Back Bay Residence

Mystery Surrounding Romona Borden's Flight May Never Be Cleared to Public

BOSTON, April 26.—C. C. Kyle, who claims to represent Gall Borden of New York, announced this afternoon that Miss Romona Borden had been found.

Kyle said that Miss Borden was a nervous wreck and was now in the care of friends. One of the women who is alleged to have been with the girl, he said, had left the city.

Kyle said that Miss Borden was found at 1:40 o'clock this afternoon by a detective at a private residence in the Back Bay.

With the girl were two other girls who are said to have been traveling with her. According to Kyle, a woman who made the fourth member of the party, had left the girls some time before.

Miss Borden was taken by her father to the home of a friend. Kyle said that he was told by Kyle, had decided to drop any legal proceedings that he might have contemplated. He was in doubt whether he would return to New York tonight or tomorrow. This depended largely, it was said, upon the condition of his daughter.

FATHER MEETS DAUGHTER.
Mr. Borden did not meet his daughter until 3 o'clock. When he heard that the girl had been found he was overjoyed, but his long period of anxiety, according to Kyle, had brought him near to a nervous collapse, and the reunion between him and his daughter was delayed to give him an opportunity to pull himself together.

Mr. Borden said he might have something to say a little later. According to a later statement by the detective agency which discovered the girl, Miss Borden was found at the Vendome Hotel and was afterward removed to the Touraine.

Kyle said that the woman who was with the girls had left the party some time between 10 o'clock last night and this morning.

Gall Borden, the New York millionaire, arrived here today in search of his 17-year-old daughter, Romona Borden, who disappeared from a sanitarium at Pompton, N. J., last Wednesday. Soon after registering at the Hotel Essex, Mr. Borden was met by representatives of a private detective agency. After a few minutes' conference the party left the hotel and it was believed they had gone to the place where Miss Borden was thought to have been located.

BAKERSFIELD, April 26.—C. F. Cramer of San Luis Obispo was fatally injured this morning, dying shortly afterward, and A. C. Shuster of this same city was badly injured when an automobile in which the two were coming from Los Angeles to Bakersfield was wrecked at the bottom of White Wolf grade when the brakes on the machine gave way.

The two were rushed to Bakersfield by a party in an automobile just behind them. Cramer died at the county hospital fifteen minutes after arrival, his skull having been crushed.

BROWN BILL DOWN FOR COUNT

'Anti-Prizefight' and 'General Opposition' Battle Before Solons

Los Angeles Senator Declares Return Match Will Be Held in Near Future

(Special Correspondence of THE TRIBUNE.)

SACRAMENTO, April 26.—After a finish fight on the floor of the Senate of California, yesterday, Senator W. E. Brown's bill limiting boxing exhibitions in the state to four rounds and "decommercializing" the sport went down to the mat and took the count of 18 ayes to 13 noes, failing to get a majority to carry. Immediately after the referee, Secretary of the Senate Parrish, had announced the verdict, Senator Brown "came back" with another challenge and gave notice of motion to reconsider.

Oakland fight fans who have been holding their breaths awaiting the verdict of the referee can relax for a few days. It may be some time before Senator Brown puts his bill on for another bout before the Senate in an endeavor to get a majority of 21 votes for it.

The "anti-prizefight bill" climbed into the ring about 11 o'clock yesterday morning and Senator Brown soon jumped through the Senatorial ropes to explain the purpose of his protégé.

"PROTECT YOUNG MEN."
He declared the bout would be a fight to the finish "to prevent young men from either becoming saloon-keepers or going to the penitentiary."

"General Opposition" came out of his corner in the person of the San Francisco delegation, to point with unparagonable pride toward the great men of the realm of fistiana.

And with these few brief words by way of introductions, the seconds tore down and blocked, countered and crossed-counter, and swatted and biffed their way through the long hours of a sweltering day.

Senator Brown declares the "unusually hot weather lost for the anti-prizefight bill" and the backers of "General Opposition" declared their front was slightly wilted by the heat also, and that under more favorable weather conditions they could have carried the day with few rounds marked against them.

Aside from this situation, the measure was provocative of a wide range of debate, which included charges that reform is being carried too far and that "some people would even reform the church."

The principal argument of Senator Brown in favor of the passage of the measure was that it is not intended to prohibit clean sportlike boxing, but it is aimed at "slugging matches and prizefights and their attendant evils."

BRANDS LAW JOKE.
The present state law is a joke," said Senator Brown, "because it permits of prizefights under the guise of a boxing match, protected by city ordinances, often framed by a too liberal board of trustees or council."

Senator Brown comes from Los Angeles and he had the united support of that delegation for his bill. Therefore, he did not wonder too far from home in his odious comparisons of the reform bill.

Los Angeles, he held, has "a good (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4-5)

JEAN THURNHERR IN ASYLUM OPERATION FAILS TO CURE

MRS. JEAN THURNHERR, KLEPTOMANIAC, WHO HAS BEEN SENT TO AN INSANE ASYLUM.

Girl Burglar Evidences No Desire to Steal When Attired in Men's Clothing

LOS ANGELES, April 26.—Mrs. Jean Thurnherr, who gained much publicity two years ago by undergoing an operation in Berkeley in the hope that it would cure her of a tendency toward kleptomania and who again broke the law recently by purchasing diamonds from a Pasadena jeweler, was committed to the insane asylum at Patton today.

Physicians who examined her and testified before the lunacy commission declared Mrs. Thurnherr had inherited her tendency toward kleptomania, but she was puzzled by her liking for wearing masculine clothing, in which garb it was said she devoted herself to athletics and exhibited no desire to take what was not hers.

LOOTED APARTMENTS.
BERKELEY, April 26.—Jean Thurnherr's romantic history came to light when she was arrested in this city in 1910 in connection with a series of burglaries and other crimes and misdemeanors. The looting of several apartments in the Ridgeway and Bon Air apartment houses were among her crimes, as well as the burglarizing of several houses, one of which she entered and left by means of a window several feet from the ground. On another occasion it was proved against her that she had forged an order on the Berkeley postoffice.

Telling the story of her career to the Berkeley police, she related how she had been adopted into the home of a judge in Los Angeles when left an orphan. Despite a good home there she had run away, bringing up in New Mexico on a cattle ranch, where she dressed for months as a man and herded cattle along with the cowboys on the ranch, maintaining for all that time the secret of her sex.

One day she was wounded in the thigh by a shot fired by an enemy of her "pal," with whom she was riding, and she was forced to leave the ranch, going to a hospital for several weeks until she had recovered.

WORKED AS BOILBOY.
In San Diego, again disguised as a boy, she worked for some time as a boilboy in a hotel, until her sex was discovered and she was forced to leave. In San Francisco she was arrested and put on probation for editing an aged milking man to her apartments and robbing him of $400. She was given to an Oakland family, who made her a good home until she was married in 1909 to Albert Thurnherr of this city.

Following her second arrest an examination by physicians was permitted by the Berkeley police, the doctors coming to the conclusion that pressure on the brain by a bone of the skull, broken in an accident in her girlhood, was responsible for her vagaries, and an operation determined upon. This was conducted by Dr. H. N. Rowell at an Oakland hospital. Mrs. Thurnherr maintained an upright course for several months thereafter, but again got into trouble at a later date and was arrested in Los Angeles a year ago. She was released on probation, only to be arrested a year later on the charge which resulted in her present transference to an asylum.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—The University of Pennsylvania carnival relay races and field sports were held on Franklin field today with one of the most representative entry lists in the nineteen years' history of the games. In the first heat of the 120-yard hurdle race J. P. Nicholson, Missouri, equaled the world's amateur record of 16.1 seconds; A. L. Jackson, Harvard, was second. 220-yard hurdle—J. P. Nicholson, Missouri; J. R. Case, Illinois; J. C. Cronley, Virginia; F. Myers, Indiana State Normal school; C. Hammett, Pennsylvania State; A. L. Jackson, Harvard; G. Bryan, Princeton, qualified for the semi-finals. M. S. Wright of Dartmouth, world's champion vault, was forced out of the pole-vault at 12 feet 1/2 inch. The world's record is 13 feet 2 1/2 inches. Shot-put won by R. L. Beatty, Columbia, with 46 feet 3/4 inches; Kohler, Michigan, today won 100 yards, second; Taibot, ex-Pennsylvania State and Cornell, an foot 7/8 inches, third; 200 yards, 44 feet, 7 inches, fourth. 100-yard dash—J. C. Patterson, Pennsylvania; R. M. Maxwell, Pennsylvania; A. W. Ward, Chicago; M. E. Robertson,

BLIND HOME SCENE OF CRIME

Alleged Affinity of Kate Dears Tries Murder; Caught and Bound to Tree

Husband of Victim Declares Couple Railroaded Him to Asylum

KATE DEARS, a waitress for the Industrial Home for the Adult Blind at Thirty-sixth and Telegraph, was shot down about 1 o'clock today by Joseph Marks, a horseshoer, who, the police declare, has been living with the woman. Two shots took effect, one in the hip, which penetrated into the abdominal region, and the other in the side of the head, inflicting a scalp wound. The woman was taken to the Merritt Hospital, where she is under the care of Dr. J. E. Emerson.

Marks was captured by Chas. A. Lee, janitor of the place and a veteran of the Spanish-American War, and P. E. Roy, a cook. Lee and Roy followed the man after the shooting, struggled with him and succeeded in disarming him. They tied Marks to a tree, where they guarded him until the arrival of the police.

SENT TO ASYLUM.
Some months ago Marks and Mrs. Dears were instrumental in having Dias, husband of the woman, sent to the insane asylum. He afterward gained his freedom and is now living in Oakland. According to his statements, Marks was an affinity of Mrs. Dears.

The police declare that Mrs. Dears, who is supporting three children, attempted to free herself from the influence of her lover. He came to the blind home last night seeking her and was seen again today some time before the shooting took place.

Apparently sitting on the rear porch outside the kitchen and dining room of the main building at the blind home when Marks stepped from behind a tree and commenced to talk with her.

FIRE TWO SHOTS.
The woman started to rise and he shot upwards at her, wounding her in the hip, the bullet penetrating upward into the body. The woman fell with a scream and Marks ran towards her. As he did so, he stumbled, but shot once more, the bullet this time cutting a slight wound in her scalp.

Following her second arrest an examination by physicians was permitted by the Berkeley police, the doctors coming to the conclusion that pressure on the brain by a bone of the skull, broken in an accident in her girlhood, was responsible for her vagaries, and an operation determined upon. This was conducted by Dr. H. N. Rowell at an Oakland hospital. Mrs. Thurnherr maintained an upright course for several months thereafter, but again got into trouble at a later date and was arrested in Los Angeles a year ago. She was released on probation, only to be arrested a year later on the charge which resulted in her present transference to an asylum.

Marks is a horseshoer and was employed with his brother in a shop at East Fourteenth street and Eighteenth avenue. Dears, the husband of the woman, was in a local barber shop. He alleges that Marks railroaded to the asylum by Marks and Mrs. Dears and that Marks exercised a baneful influence over the woman.

When Kidnaped Boy Is Brought Back.

OPELOUSAS, La., April 26.—Practically the entire town of Opelousas welcomed home yesterday Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Dunbar and the child they say is their boy who was kidnaped from his home last August. A half holiday was proclaimed.

Mr. Dunbar, with the boy and a committee, headed by the mayor on a hook and ladder wagon, led a procession of several thousand persons from the railway station to the Dunbar home. The people here accept the child as that of the Dunbars, many saying they were sure of their identification.

The boy's three-year-old brother, unaware of the cause of the excitement and the controversy over whether it is his brother who was returned, embraced "Robert" when they met. The child seemed familiar with surroundings at the Dunbar home.

'TRUANTS' TOPIC OF
SOCIAL WORKERS

George W. Frick to Preside at Luncheon; School Officials to Speak.

County Superintendent of Schools George W. Frick will preside at the social workers' luncheon at Capwell's roof garden on Tuesday, April 23, at which the topic of discussion will be 'Truant Children and a Parental School.' Other speakers will be Superintendent of Oakland Schools J. W. McClymonds, School Attendance Officers C. N. Shane, H. H. Shedd and Frank McAllister, together with Assistant Probation Officer Robert Tyson.

The various school superintendents and many members of the various boards of education in Alameda county for several months have been working for assembly bill No. 2074, which has been introduced by Assemblyman William C. Clark and which makes it possible for those counties which so desire to enforce the compulsory education law in the country school districts through a county school attendance officer. This bill will come up for discussion and possible indorsement.

Superintendent McClymonds and other Oakland school workers are also advocating a parental school, an institution which has long since been provided in San Francisco and many other counties, and which is necessary to carry out the terms of the compulsory education law. Many of the mothers' clubs have indorsed the proposition, which will be presented by Superintendent McClymonds.

Social workers and any other citizens interested are cordially invited.

HOURS OF LABOR
TO BE UNIFORM

Massachusetts Congressman
Introduces Resolution Providing for Amendment.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—An amendment to the Constitution which, when ratified by two-thirds of the states, would give Congress the power to make uniform the hours of labor throughout the United States, is proposed in a resolution introduced in the House today by Representative Curley of Massachusetts. Representative Curley contends that the difference in the hours of labor in many states, varying from fifty-four hours a week in Massachusetts to sixty-six hours in the Southern States, creates an "unwarranted discrimination" in favor of manufacturers located in states where the long hours prevail.

It was for the purpose of eliminating this discrimination that the resolution was offered.

SNAKE FRIGHTENS
SOBER TRAINMAN

"Gopher" Crawls Finds Resting Place in Coupling of Car.

A large "gopher snake" wedged, through some unaccountable manner, in a coupling of a freight car at the Oakland yards, yesterday caused considerable excitement and gave Daniel Hughes, inspector, the fright of his life when, in trying to uncouple the car he saw the reptile's head about six inches from his face. From the Northwest Mounted Police and taken to Chapman, Alberta, dangerously wounded. He received rifle bullets in his arm and head Wednesday following the shooting of Detective Bailey and his weakened condition caused him to succumb to his wounds.

With a yell Hughes jumped away and called the other yard men, who at first would not believe his statement.

"Come on and see," said Hughes. "I tell you, it's alive." Finally Inspectors Oscar Shirk and W. J. Potter agreed to take a look, and Hughes' reputation for veracity was established. The snake was killed. How the snake, after getting into the coupling, escaped being smashed, and how it got there anyway is a puzzle that the trainmen are trying to solve.

It is alleged that Duffy and Mrs. Martzoff, who is really his wife, had been in the city of San Francisco, California, for some time. The fraud was accomplished, the extradition papers were through the marriage between Duffy and Miss Cook.

CLAIM VISION OF
VIRGIN WAS SEEN

Apparition Appeared Over the Casket, Declare Members of Family.

That a vision of the Virgin Mary, outlined on the wall of the home over the casket of the late Robert L. Dwyer, was seen by twelve members of the family is the statement made by the wife and children of the dead man today. The vision, they claim, appeared Wednesday morning shortly after two o'clock and was dispelled only when the sunlight streamed into the room.

The description of the vision varies, but all agree that it stood above the body of the husband and father. Miss Jessie Dwyer, daughter of the dead man, declares that she saw the vision first. Others who claim to have seen the vision include Mrs. Henry Dwyer and Mr. Albert Hart, daughters of the dead man. Albert Hart, Thomas McGinnis and Mr. Holland Downes and wife and three small children.

Dwyer was formerly a wharfman of San Francisco and a pioneer of the city. He was formerly connected with the Catholic church. Several of Mrs. Dwyer's family are priests. None can explain the apparition but all declare that it showed on the wall. It was, they say, indistinct in outline.

Bartender Alleges Bandit Took
and Fled.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—With Lieutenant of Police Captain Sergeant Egan and Patrolman Peter Smith, all standing in the neighborhood, a daring highwayman stepped into the saloon at 24 Embarcadero, conducted by P. J. Rush, and held up James Kelly, the night bartender, at 9 o'clock this morning. Kelly claims that he was behind the bar when a man whom he believed to be a customer, entered. As he turned he faced a pistol in the hands of the bandit who was attired in a soldier's uniform. The robber took $75 from the cash register and fled. Kelly followed him to the door immediately, sounded his police whistle and the three officers ran toward him. They declare that they saw no highwayman, nor did they notice any one fleeing. Morse, Patrolman Skidmore, however, saw a man disappear into a vacant stable at 1402 Stewart street but a search of the premises failed to reveal him.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—William Jennings Bryan, Secretary of State, received praise as well as criticism for his announced policy of giving only "stringed grape juice" at his official as well as private dinners.

Mrs. Belva Lockwood, who is the only woman who ever ran for president, when asked why she thought of the innovation, replied simply: "I should worry."

Congressman Bartholomew of Missouri said that Mr. Bryan's action was "hospitality with a string tied to it."

The London papers ridicule Bryan for indulging his prejudice on representatives of foreign countries, and the Pall Mall Gazette says that the new regime will become known as "wily Washington."

Mrs. Flohr wants to be supported pending action. Flohr told the court that his better half had struck him with the dumb bell while he was asleep and clinched his case when he showed his scar.

MUST PAY ALIMONY
OR SERVE JAIL TERM

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—Alber Wallen, a brother of former police commissioner Wallen must pay a portion of $1065 owing Mrs. Augusta Wallen for back alimony before next Friday or go to jail for contempt of court. This was the decision of Judge Smith yesterday but it has no terrors for Wallen. In September, 1910, and again in November he served three days in prison on a similar charge. Mrs. Wallen was given $40 a month when she obtained a divorce decree in 1907.

A Bill to Prey on the Dead.

The Smith bill, establishing a state board of embalmers, which was the first bill introduced in the Assembly to be turned down, was subsequently resurrected and on Wednesday was passed as a special order with only nine votes recorded against it. It is a bill that is notoriously against good public policy, and the mysterious change which has produced its final passage in the Assembly is sure to excite the curiosity of every thoughtful citizen.

The embalmers' bill is one of those vicious measures which have been numerous introduced in the present legislature but have no claim for honest consideration by any member of that body. When it was originally downed by the Assembly, it should have remained dead and buried beyond the hope of resurrection.

The bill is, on the face of it, a measure framed wholly in the interest of a trust—the Funeral Directors' Association—a combination of undertakers organized expressly for the purpose of creating a monopoly of the business of burying the dead and positively obnoxious to the law prohibiting the restraint of trade.

The bill provides that the embalming of bodies must be done by an embalmer licensed by the State board created under it. No undertaking establishment can do business under the bill unless the head of the concern holds an embalmer's license issued by the board or has in its employ some one who has secured such a license. What there is in the art of embalming that is not a matter of common accessibility to anyone to acquire in these modern times without any special study or training passeth all human understanding. But the bill, having been framed by the Funeral Directors' Association, that organization will naturally have the naming of the State Board of Embalmers, or, at all events, the appointments to the board, should the bill ever be unfortunate enough to become law (which it goes without saying ought not to occur), will naturally be drawn from the combination of undertakers that stands sponsor for the measure.

The effect of the bill, if it should become law, must be obvious to any citizen of ordinary intelligence. It will, in the first place, strengthen the undertaking trust created in restraint of trade, destroy competition in the business of burying the dead, by granting the association an absolute monopoly, and, in the second place, increase the cost of funerals. In other words, it will open a field for exploitation where ghouls may prey at libitum on the estates of the dead, if they leave any estate, or on the friends or relatives of those who perform the last sacred office for the deceased.

The bill has absolutely no legitimate merit to it and the Senate should promptly kill it.

The prospective razing of the Sather residence located on the block bounded by Twelfth and Thirteenth, Castro and Grove streets, to make way for modern business improvements emphasizes the rapid disappearance of Oakland's ancient landmarks. A host of them have passed away during the last four or five years and only a few remain. Strange as it may appear, most of the survivors stand today, as they have stood for the better part of a half century, on Broadway in the very heart of the business quarter where there exists the greater demand for their removal to give way for improvements that harmonize with the spirit and crying necessities of the times.

Solution of Tong Wars.

Once more the real source of responsibility for the frequent Chinese tong wars has been exposed in the settlement of the feud which has raged for three months between two of the tongs in all of the principal cities on the Pacific Coast and in which nine victims have been sacrificed. It is given out that the settlement was forced by a threat made by the president of a third tong—reputed to be the most powerful of all these lawless organizations—that unless a peace compact between the two tongs actually at war was signed by their responsible officers within forty-eight hours, his own organization would enter into the fight. Articles of peace were signed within the time limit at the headquarters of the Chinese Six Companies in San Francisco, and the event is to be openly celebrated by a love feast tomorrow night. Responsibility for the crimes committed and for the compounding of the felonies is thus clearly fixed and the federal authorities who have, for the first time in the history of the tong wars, taken cognizance of them should have no difficulty about determining how and against whom to proceed.

The federal government has stepped into the case on the present occasion because the Bing Kong-Suey Sing tong war extended to three States—California, Oregon and Washington. All previous tong wars were confined to one State and only the State involved had, therefore, jurisdiction over the belligerents. Invariably, the real responsible persons for the murders committed in these tong wars have escaped the penalty for the crimes. Only the tools employed to carry out their murderous orders have suffered the penalty of the law when they happened to get arrested. Those fortunate enough to escape arrest were smuggled out of the country by the aid of the Chinese Six Companies.

It is reported as programmed that those indicted for the murders committed during the latest tong war, among whom are a tong president and secretary, shall be abandoned to their fate. In other words, they are to be made the scapegoats of the "higher-ups" in the Chinese colony who are really responsible for the crimes chargeable against the prisoners. If this happens, the ends of justice will once more be defeated and established law fall of vindication. The real culprits will prove that they are above the law and will escape the penalty which they more justly deserve to suffer than the instruments they have employed to carry out their murderous orders and are offering as vicarious sacrifices.

There can be no hope for permanent peace in the Chinese colony until the law stretches forth its hand to grasp the "higher-ups" and deal with them according to their deserts. It may be true, as is alleged, that the worst type of tong men are American-born Chinese; but the real heads of the Chinese colony and the directors of the tong wars and the arbitrators in their final settlements, are not American-born and have nothing but supreme contempt for American law. Through legal technicalities, they may escape responsibility as principals, but they surely can be held as accessories before and after the fact. And, if no other penalty can be imposed upon them for their part in the crimes committed substantial reasons may be easily found for their deportation as "undesirables." Until the law asserts itself in some way, there can be no security against a future tong outbreak.

DISTURBING THE EQUILIBRIUM

National Power of Bonding.

The new French budget will call for a loan of $200,000,000 to provide for the proposed additions to the national armaments in the army and navy in 1914 for national defense. Associated with this statement is the announcement that the deficit in the budget of 1913 amounts to $40,000,000. But neither of these representations disturb the French people in the slightest degree. The French are the most frugal people in Europe. Paris is not France. The financial backbone of the nation is in the small landowners in the departments outside the capital, for every inch of tillable soil in France is subjected to intensive culture; and every peasant farmer, no matter how small his acreage, not only manages to get out of the soil enough to support himself and family, but a remainder also to invest in French rents.

The national debt of France is greater than that of any other nation in Europe. It has grown steadily since the time of the wars of the first Napoleon. It is growing still. But it creates no national alarm, for the nation carries its own debt. It never borrows from abroad. It has, in fact, always money to invest in other countries at profitable rates of interest. French rents are taken up exclusively by the peasant landowners of France just as British consols are carried practically wholly by British investors. In fact, the underlying principle governing both the French and British national debts is that so long as the nation's creditors are its own subjects national bankruptcy is impossible. The soundness of the principle was demonstrated in the case of France when she paid off in a surprisingly brief period the enormous war indemnity imposed upon her by Bismarck at the close of the Franco-Prussian war of 1870, and by the ability of Great Britain to largely reduce her national debt, as the result of the long period of peace which followed the close of the Crimean war and to quickly recover from the temporary increase of the national debt occasioned by the costly Boer war.

As THE TRIBUNE has already stated, France has plenty of money in the possession of her own people on which she can draw, as was recently evidenced when the subscription opened for a $40,000,000 loan by the city of Paris, $3,320,000,000, or eighty-three times the amount needed, was offered. It is those nations that must borrow abroad that are handicapped, as was illustrated still more recently by Germany's withdrawal of a subscription loan of $100,000,000 because only $40,000,000 was subscribed from any source.

CRAVINGS OF CHILDREN

Everyone of the cravings which we not infrequently see in the average child, for sugar, or green apples, or butter, or cake; yes, even for dirt and shoe leather, are simply due to his having been starved of some element in the unbalanced and inadequate ration on which we have compelled him to live, whether he liked it or not.

When the child is allowed to grow up as a few children, thank heaven, are now beginning to be allowed to grow up, with freedom to indulge his own natural instincts upon a wide variety of good, sound, wholesome, nutritious food, it is promptly found that the things which the child really likes to eat are meat and milk and butter and sugar and fruit and ice cream and the clean crusts of bread and hard crackers; in other words, exactly the things that he most needs and must have in his daily business of growing up.

When he has been fed and "indulged" like this the child can be trusted with a candy box on the table all day long and an unopened pantry of starches and cereals are all very well to grow guinea pigs and horned cattle, but they are not at all the things needed to make human beings out of him.

If your child has developed an abnormal craving for anything, or even a marked tendency to gorge himself in his hurry upon any particular food, it is because you have starved him, and you ought to be ashamed of yourself instead of scolding him.—Dr. Woods Hutchinson in American Magazine.

FRENCH TOBACCO MONOPOLY

It is said that the French tobacco monopoly has netted nearly $2,000,000,000 in the 100 years or so during which it has been in existence.

On December 29, 1810, a decree issued by Napoleon created the Tobacco Regie, a monopoly of the importation, manufacture, and sale of tobacco in all its forms. It was estimated that this monopoly would add $80,000,000 francs to the annual receipts from taxation.

While this expectation was not immediately realized, a few years later the estimate was more than met. The revenues from that source have continued to increase as the practice of smoking has become more general, and the consumption of high-grade cigars and cigarettes has augmented with the increased luxury of living. Then, too, there must be considered the constantly increasing number of foreigners who reside more or less permanently in France.

From 1811 to 1814 the revenue from the regie averaged $3,000,000 francs ($12,150,000) a year. The receipts for 1911 approximated $95,000,000.

There must be added to this the annual profit of $7,337,200 derived from the monopoly of the manufacture and sale of matches. It is, therefore, quite evident that the revenues which are derived from tobacco are among the most reliable and profitable of the French government.—Harper's Weekly.

BILLIONS OF CANS

The American Can Company made last year 2,000,000,000 common tin cans and several million cans not classed as "common."

A new use for the smaller cans has been found by the savage tribes of Africa, who make earrings of them.

If the 2,000,000,000 common cans that the company made last year were laid end to end they would reach round the world six times. Filled with the food stuffs they usually contain and sold with their contents for 10 cents apiece they would bring about $200,000,000.

There is scarcely anything made of tin that the company does not manufacture. It produces more than 42,000 different kinds of articles. In the United States the production of tin cans has increased 200 per cent in the last ten years.—New York Sun.

GOSSIP FROM SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLIES

"Bill" Lange Fell While Ragging

This is a story which may not be believed. But one hundred and eighty-five men were present; so were nearly as many women. And they are prepared to make affidavit that it is true. The place was the ballroom in the basement of the German House. The time was last Friday night, or to be accurate, Saturday morning. The scene was one of syncretized activity, of rag-time enthusiasm. Foremost among the dancers was William A. Lange, otherwise known as "Big Bill," "Handsome Bill" or "Merry Legs." To say that "Bill" and his fair partner were ragging is to state an obvious fact in most adequate words. Really they were taring the rag out of rag-time and putting the syncope on syncope. They were gliding and they were dipping; they swayed, they shuffled and they skipped. They improvised the poetry of motion. I hesitate to write it. But as Captain Rebec of the Mantle Piece remarked, "It is my duty and I will." "Big Bill" Lange fell. Actually slipped and fell, did "Bill." It seems incredible, but it's true. The greatest of our raggers came to momentary grief. Like Lucifer, Son of the Morning, and like Julius Caesar, "Bill" Lange fell, and oh, what a fall was there, my countrymen! But let us draw the veil of forgetfulness over this single slip in the dancing career of Terpsichore's favorite disciple. Let us dwell rather on the delights of rag-time. In the language of rag-time, "it was some bear of a party." All the great raggers of this home of rag-time were present in their best form. The music was the best rag music to be had. In fact, it was because the musicians were not to be had for the night of April 16 that Mr. and Mrs. Lange postponed the party from April 16 to April 18. Could greater tribute be paid to a rag-time orchestra? April 18 was the anniversary of the Lange marriage, and it was to celebrate that, not for a "seven years after" party that the friends of the popular couple were bidden to assemble. As I have said, the best raggers were all there, dancing the quintessence of rag-time. The Texas Tommy, the Tango and all the subtlest forms of turkey trotting were exhibited by fair women and indefatigable men.—Town Talk.

Discovering Genthe in New York

They are discovering Dr. Genthe in New York. Since the doctor left San Francisco for the larger field of the metropolis, his success has been steadily increasing until now he is looked upon as one of the most artistic photographers in the East. Interest in his work being the editor of the American Magazine had Will Irwin write an article about Genthe. It is safe to say that many of Genthe's friends here will obtain from it information about parts of the photographer's career of which they knew nothing. Irwin writes that when Genthe came to this city he had the degree of Ph. D. from the University of Jena and "trimmings from Berlin and the Sorbonne." Also that "among the publications of the University of Jena was a treatise on the Authenticity of the Tenth Century Lucan Codes of the University of Erlangen—a code so crude that Professor West of Princeton is the only living American who has read it." It was written by Genthe. Twenty years ago he wrote a Dictionary of German signs which is the standard work on the subject and is about to be re-issued in a revised edition. Irwin also tells us that Genthe is master of eight languages, ancient and modern; that he learned Japanese while snap-shooting in Japan; that his painting teacher once advised him to stick to art; that he was a formidable duelist at Jena; and that he can split a card with a pistol bullet. And now he is second to none in color photography. How many of us knew what an Admirable Criticism the doctor was?—Town Talk.

The Disappearing Pioneers

On an election day in San Francisco and on juries in the law courts one can sometimes see old citizens in early days cut quite a figure in the social, political or financial doings in San Francisco. That former multimillionaire, Colonel Peter A. Finnegan, whose coach-and-four was one of the sights of Golden Gate Park a generation ago, was an election officer on Tuesday last at a booth on California street and Webster. The colonel got the title by serving on the staff of one of the governors of California. He drove a hotel bus in early days and made a large fortune in the Comstock mining excitement. The colonel's residence on California street possessed the finest stable on the Pacific Coast. A pioneer stock operator had built it and spent so much money on the marble and mahogany decorated stalls that he had not enough left for his residence, and later suffered by comparison with the lodgings of his equine pets. This gorgeous stable captivated the fancy of Colonel Finnegan, and he became the successor of the stockbroking owner, who found it necessary to sell. Across the street from Colonel Finnegan's palatial stable was the residence of the late Lucky Baldwin, whose coach-and-four was the rival of the colonel's in the park and at the race meetings of the Blood Horse Association, of which both multimillionaires were directors. Another famous member of the association was James Ben All Haggin, the great California land-owner, whose young wife is now a leader of New York and Newport society. Haggin, who was richer than either Colonel Finnegan or Lucky Baldwin, rode in a comparatively modest rig to the races, or sometimes used the street cars.

Of that generation of celebrities of the mining stock market the best preserved is Bob Morrow, who is well over eighty and still spry. He can be seen any day on Montgomery street, which at present is only a shadow of its former self. Such men as Joe King and Chas. S. Neal and George T. Mayne, whom the young generation of stockbrokers regard as pioneers, are more tenderfoot compared with Bob Morrow, who seems to be immune from the wear and tear of time.—The Wasp.

Anonymous Envy

There have been lots of pretty girls from all over the State entered in the $100 prize beauty contest of the Portola Festival Committee, the contest which, closing April 30, decides the poster girl model for the fete. After one of the prettiest pictures of all had been printed, this postal card reached the Portola committee's headquarters. It was, to state an obvious fact, written in a feminine hand. "Was reading the paper the other eve and seen where Miss So and so has entered the contest. Well I just want you to go and take a look at that girl's face in person and see just how homely she is. Her picture is pretty but she don't look like that at all she has no eyebrows or no eyelashes and she is as homely as sin. Go and see the girl and you will say I am right who is very homely." The card was unsigned.—Town Talk.

MacKenzie's High Gamble

Roderick J. MacKenzie, the millionaire son of the great Canadian railroad king, lost $151,000 in a roulette game at the Villa Maletto a few nights ago. He did not pay his loss at the time, and later on, deciding that he had been victimized with a crooked roulette wheel, determined not to pay it at all. Whether or not MacKenzie got a fair and square "run for his money" is an open question. The evidence on which he based his determination not to pay the fortune which he gambled away is limited. The gamblers to whom MacKenzie lost regard him as a welcher. If so, it is the first time he has ever welched on a gambling debt, for he has always borne the reputation of being a game loser. About five years ago he lost $75,000 in a roulette game in Los Angeles, and although the men who got him into the game were headed by "Bud" Houser, a notorious confidence man who is now dead, he paid the loss without a murmur. The sum of $151,000 is only a drop in the bucket to "Rod" MacKenzie. He could pay it and never miss it. But he refuses to do so on grounds he regards as amply sufficient. His friends declare that he has taken the right course. Whether the gamblers who call MacKenzie a welcher are right, or whether MacKenzie's friends who insist that he pursued the proper course have the better of the argument cannot be decided offhand.—Town Talk.

How It Happened

I do not know whether MacKenzie was victimized or not, but the story is an interesting one and I shall tell it as I have heard it, without taking sides. One night recently MacKenzie made the rounds of the beach resorts, and stayed for some time in Dibble's, the proprietor of that interesting place, Frank Dibble, being an acquaintance of his. MacKenzie is not what you would call a gambler by any means, but he likes to "take a chance" occasionally. Certainly if any resident of San Francisco can afford to do so it is "Rod" MacKenzie, for he has many millions. On this night he decided that the excitement of high play would be welcome, so in the company of Dibble he motored from the road house on the beach to the gambling place across the county line known as Villa Maletto. This temple dedicated to the Goddess of Chance is open only to high players and the proprietors are two well known gamblers, Marshbanks and "Suede John," at whose Faro, roulette and crap tables many men of wealth are quite willing to hazard their spending money. MacKenzie played the roulette wheel. His first bet was $50,000, and he lost it. The spinning ball did not favor MacKenzie that night, and at the end of the session he had lost $151,000. Because MacKenzie is well known and his credit perfectly good, no money passed hands that night. It was taken for granted that he would return to the Villa Maletto in the course of a few days and settle his loss.—Town Talk.

What the Waiter Heard

Before MacKenzie and Dibble left the road house to motor down to the gambling resort Dibble telephoned to the Villa Maletto to announce their coming. A waiter overheard him telephone and says that his words were: "I am coming down with 'Rod' MacKenzie. Get ready for him." That sounds like a perfectly innocent telephone message. But it is the reason MacKenzie refused to pay his $151,000 loss. According to MacKenzie and his friends that message is susceptible of a sinister interpretation.—Town Talk.

The Happy Bruiguere

Dr. and Mrs. Peder S. Bruiguere are receiving from all sides congratulations on the decision in their recent very annoying suit. All arrangements were made for Mrs. Bruiguere to leave for Europe a fortnight ago with Mrs. Albert Russell, who has gone across to visit her mother, Gertrude Atherton, in Lucerne, but she was taken ill. The trip has not been abandoned, merely postponed until she is strong enough to travel. She will join the Francis Bruiguere in Italy and when they come home she will visit her sister, Miss Eleanor King, who is studying singing in Paris with Miss Bessie Bowls. Mrs. Bruiguere is a great favorite among a large circle of friends in this city, by whom she is admired for her sweetness, gentleness and intellectual qualities, as well as for her rare beauty.—Town Talk.

Everyone Interested in Engagement

Every one was interested in the announcement of Nell Grant's engagement to Lieutenant-Commander William Paget Cronan, U. S. A., not only on account of the charming young woman's illustrious family connections, but because gossip, which has had her engaged several times before, has never seen the successful culmination of its predictions.

The last affair to occur which Nell is supposed to have had was a setting in British India, where she was visiting a cousin, the wife of an officer in the English army.

Nell remained in India two years, and received the marked devotion of an officer of the king's army, whom she was declared to have looked upon with favor. The affair at one time waxed so warm that news of it traveled across the Red Sea, the Suez Canal, the Indian Ocean, the broad Atlantic, and over the Rockies to California, and it was expected that the engagement would be announced upon Miss Grant's return to this coast.

But whether it was loyalty for the Stars and Stripes that checked her from making a foreign alliance, or whether it was something stronger that even the patriotism of a Grant, that kept her from becoming a member of the English aristocracy, gossip was unable to determine until her betrothal to Commander Cronan became known.

Nell and the popular naval officer have been sweethearts since childhood, although she has at times successfully concealed it from a score of her admirers. But those who know say that it is this schoolyard romance that has kept her heart bafflingly out of reach of her many cavaliers. Nell is very good looking, quite tall and slender, with lovely little white hands, and lower large brown eyes. It is said these eyes, that cannot resist looking unutterable things, could have been the downfall of many a confirmed bachelor. Nell Grant is the sort of girl who attracts to her men of all types, but especially those who admire grace and the fast-vanishing femininity that are an accomplishment of the passing gentlewoman.

The Grant family has real claim to aristocracy, aside from the fact of the late General W. S. Grant being their head. They are related to the Dent clan through the marriage of the old warrior-president into that eminent household. Nell is the niece of Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, of the United States and England, for whom she was named, and a cousin of the Princess Cantacuzene. Miss Grant's mother, Mrs. Jessie Root Grant, was Elizabeth Chapman of San Francisco, and Mrs. J. B. Mason of this city, now abroad, is one of her aunts.

University Graduates Are Married

The marriage of Miss Ruth Slack and Judge Edgar Zook of Marin county, on Wednesday night, though a home ceremony, was witnessed by two hundred relatives and friends, and was an important event in as much as it united two Northern California families of substantial social influence.

Mrs. Zook, as the daughter of Judge and Mrs. Charles W. Slack, could have had a brilliant social career in San Francisco had she not given up her debut for a college education. Like her mother and father, and her sister, Miss Edith Slack, Mrs. Zook is a graduate of the University of California. She received her diploma with the class of 1911, and during her four years at the University of California went in wholeheartedly for the typical college life. Unlike so many of the society girls who dabble in higher education, Mrs. Zook left San Francisco and lived in Berkeley during the entire four years she was in college. She made her home at the Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority, to which she belongs, and took part in all of the activities of her class. She was one of that remarkable sort, who could go to every tea, dance and dinner party, and still keep comfortably up with her college work. Mrs. Zook has large brown eyes, a wealth of black hair, is tall and slender, and has a decided charm. It is predicted that her home in San Rafael, where she and Judge Zook will live upon their return from their honeymoon, will be a rendezvous for all of the intellectual members of the young married set. Judge Zook is the son of Frank Zook of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad. He is also a graduate of the University of California, and is a member of the Zeta Psi fraternity.—News Letter.

Jennie Crocker Is Going Home

Now that Jennie Crocker Whitman has announced her intention of returning to spend the summer in the East, idle gossip is stirred, and one hears of the rumor that the Whitmans' matrimonial ship sails uneasy waters. As a matter of fact, the Whitmans are devoted to one another and ideally happy. But the moment Jennie arrived, unaccompanied by her husband, idle gossip had to have it that they were planning to spend the summer apart. The truth is Mrs. Whitman had to come West on business. The Crocker interests are all here and though she gave power of attorney to Henry T. Scott at the time of her marriage, some of them demand her attention. Also her grandmother, Mrs. Edson, who has been living with her son, Ansel Edson, for the past year, is growing old and feeble and wanted to see her great grandchildren, the little Burton Harrisons, so Jennie brought them out for a visit. She will return in May to spend the summer with Mr. Whitman at their country home in Massachusetts. Mrs. Whitman has had rather a quiet visit among her old friends. She comes to town two or three times a week for lunch at the St. Francis and was one of a theater party at John Drew's performance, with the Horace Pillsburys. But for the most part she remains at her Hillsborough estate.—Town Talk.

Miss Allen Presents Neville Stevens

It took a vigorous Los Angeles belle to introduce something new in San Francisco on the way of social amenities, the belle being Miss Dorothy Allen, and the innovation the times she gave Saturday night in honor of Neville Stevens, a Los Angeles beau. There is no reason in the world why a girl, if she is sweet and amiable enough to introduce her men friends to all the girls she knows, should not be permitted to do so in the way that appeals to her as the pleasantest. But there are always the disgruntled few who are eager to criticize, and those seized upon the rather bizarre debut of Mr. Stevens into San Francisco society. They think it would have been much more in keeping if the introduction had come through some club friends or bachelors, instead of at a dance given by a pretty debutante. And one cannot think of the affair without conjuring up a picture of Ned Greenway standing in the drawing-room of some charming hostess in a strange city, a bouquet in his hand and a benign smile on his face, receiving in true debutante fashion the homage of the charming young ladies who are presented to his special delectation.

To Miss Allen give the palm for introducing this new spirit de corps among the sexes it is quite in keeping with the general camaraderie of the suffrage States, and it is a quick and simple way of putting men and women on a basis of social equality. Doubtless the next publication of "What's Done in Society" will have a special chapter devoted to entertainments for eligible young men.

Miss Allen is recognized as very good form, and her friends are among the young conservative set, to which Miss Florence Stony and Miss Margaret Chrysal belong. Her aunt, Mrs. Frederick Kilham, is responsible for her social successes in San Francisco.—News Letter.

The Lady and the Playwright

Discussing a recent ball one of our most brilliant literary men asked a lady who was there, "Did you see Elsie Greenfield there?" "I don't know her," was the answer; "what does she look like?" "She was the prettiest girl there and the best dancer," said the literary man. "Why, how do you know?" asked the lady; "you were not there." "Ah! but I know because she always is wherever she goes," was the apt reply. One hears much of the charming Mrs. Greenfield. Young, beautiful, well educated, accomplished, sensible, wealthy, aristocratic—what more could one ask? Mrs. Greenfield is a widow with a little son. Since coming to this city she has made many warm friends. As for suitors, there is legion, I hear. The one most favored is the far home young son of Dr. and Mrs. Kenyon who has become a successful playwright. Charles Kenyon, who wrote the splendid play "Gladiators," and for whom literary and theatrical people predict a flower-bedecked path to the fields of large wealth and royal fame. Mrs. Greenfield is the daughter of Bob Cook, known to this day as the best ideal college man. He was a famous Yale athlete, handsome, wealthy, brilliant, popular all over the country. He now resides in Paris. The twigs belong to the most exclusive social set in the city. Mrs. Greenfield expects, one hears, to leave soon for a visit to relatives in Pittsburg, but admiring friends hope that one of these days she will return here permanently as Miss Kenyon.—Town Talk.

Bixby and the Jonquil

The chemically pure town of Los Angeles is more in the throes of a colorful scandal, and a representative of one of its chastest families appears to be in danger of prosecution on some very unpleasant charges. The Bixbys of Los Angeles are among the earliest of the Gringo families. The three Bixby brothers, one of whom was the father of George W. Bixby, settled in Los Angeles more than forty years ago. They were almost quakers in their ways, but they were the sturdy pillars of the Methodist church. From all accounts the police of Los Angeles, hardened as they are, received a big shock when they uncovered the escapade of gentle lubricity and psychopathic sexuality at "The Jonquil." But should they have been shocked? Men who hear the doings of the seamy side of city life described and discussed have known for a long time that in certain "protected resorts" in Los Angeles the ruin of unfortunate young girls resorted from the cafeterias, the moving picture companies and the department stores has been going steadily on. Los Angeles has its full share of vicious young men and degenerate old millionaires, and vice conditions have become intolerable since the tenderness was lifted and its habits scattered throughout the city.—Town Talk.

A Delicate Situation

The news that Colonel Charles L. Phillips of the Coast Artillery Corps has been ordered to take command at Fort Winfield Scott is interesting army circles in this city, as it revives the little romance which existed between Colonel Phillips' charming daughter, Calli, and Lieutenant Ralph Chrysal Harrison, C. A. C. Colonel Phillips was stationed for several years at Fort Scriven, Georgia, where Lieutenant Harrison was also on duty, and it was there that the young officer and Miss Phillips became engaged. Soon after the announcement appeared in the service paper. When then news of her soldier son's betrothal reached the ears of Mrs. Chrysal Harrison, she packed her trunk and set out for Fort Scriven. A few weeks later the service paper which had published the interesting announcement of the engagement was compelled to retract it, as Mrs. Harrison denied positively that the rumor had a proper foundation, or any whatever. Shortly after this incident Lieutenant Harrison was ordered to take station at Fort Winfield Scott, and now comes the news that Miss Phillips' martial father is to be in command of that corner of Uncle Sam's coast defenses. Naturally the "petticoat army" is wondering whether the former rumor of the engagement will be revived or whether the gaiety of San Francisco society, in which Lieutenant Harrison has taken an active part since his arrival, will continue to absorb his attention. Colonel and Mrs. Phillips and Miss Calli are due to arrive here next week, so we shall not have long to wait and wonder.—The Wasp.

Suffragette Muses Invade Bohemia

Charley Field, the editor of Sunset, had just been installed as president of the Bohemian Club in succession to George F. Richardson, the superintendent of transportation for the Southern Pacific. Everybody was happy including the owl, the bird of Bohemia, which blinked approval. Suddenly there was a crash of glass and through a window of the jinks room that gave on Taylor street six women fantastically attired effected an entrance. Rattling President Richardson demanded of them who they were. "We are the Muses, the Suffragette Muses," replied the leader. "Why did you enter through a broken window?" was the next question. "That's the only way the Muses could get into this club," was the reply. "But there are only eight of you," was objected. "Where is the ninth Muse?" "Melpomene Pankhurst is on a hunger strike," was the explanation. But just then Melpomene Pankhurst made her appearance, coming from the kitchen.—Town Talk.

The Meddler

WITH beautiful spring weather reported from every section of the globe, life is full of many and varied activities. In the first place, the world seems to have gone "dance mad," and it may be safely said of California that we are far more conservative than New York or Chicago. We have not yet come to the point where there is dancing in our restaurants and in hotel cafes in the afternoon. In the large cities abroad and in New York, "the dansante," in spite of all opposition, has come to stay; everybody, old and young, dances. And gowns this spring are following the craze for dancing, and unusual results in "dancing gowns" are being achieved. The latest cry from New York heralds some of the changes.

The present rage for dancing—a rage that has drawn even our staid, middle-aged friends into classes for the acquisition of the turkey trot and the tango—made it inevitable that a very important section of the display should be devoted to dancing frocks. In another day and generation most of those shown would have been classified as for the debutante. But if mothers take up the dancing steps of their daughters they may insist on annexing equally inappropriate clothes in which to disport themselves.

Chiffon or satin was generally the foundation of these lovely little dresses. If the frock itself was of satin, the skirt was often so short that it seemed scarcely more than a lengthened tunic, coming down a little further than the knees. Below this there was only the under-petticoat of deep cream net and shadow lace, trimmed with rows of little colored roses of satin, or net, or chiffon. In one frock the white satin tunic was scalloped around the bottom, and these scallops were bordered with white bugles, sewed on flat. Of course the under-petticoats are transparent, so that the ankles are plainly visible through them.

One can imagine some of our staid matrons in these gowns when they too take up the dancing craze.

With the spring comes a renewal of golf, which is the "raison d'être" of the modern country club. Americans are playing very good golf, indeed, winning prizes abroad. To go to Scotland and to carry off golf prizes there means to have achieved something worth while in the world of sport. The golfing season was formally opened in Berlin last week with the beginning of the annual competition for the Spring Cup. The trophy was won in 1912 by William Spencer, secretary of the American embassy, who will make a strong effort to capture it a second time in order to retain it as his permanent property.

Golf has become so popular here within the last year that the Berlin Club has felt obliged to raise its initiation fee in order to limit the membership of Germans, who used to comprise only a very small percentage of the membership, but now make up nearly half. New courses are springing up all over the country, and it is becoming the vogue for German country gentlemen to lay out links on their private estates. Prince Henry of Prussia is a frequent player on the Berlin course as the guest of Captain Watson, the English naval attaché.

On our own golf links some very good scores are being made in these gorgeous spring days, and among the good players are T. C. Coogan; Al Coogan, George de Golla, Jack Neville, Robert Fitzgerald, Frank Kates, John J. Donovan, Miss Violet Whitney, Miss Elsie Everson, Mrs. John Valentine.

HARROLD-CLAY WEDDING IS BRILLIANT EVENT.

One of the most interesting weddings of the year was that of Miss Madeline Clay and Warren Harrold, which took place on Tuesday evening. The Clays and Harrolds have lived so many years in Oakland that they represent very prominent families, and the wedding was in many ways one of the most notable of the spring.

"Level Lee" has had a reputation for hospitality that is historic in Fruitvale annals and the time-honored traditions were fully observed in the very lovely wedding Mrs. C. V. Clay planned for her youngest daughter. It was a most charming rose wedding—the rooms of the large home being transformed into beautiful bowers of roses—gorgeous American Beauty roses being the motif for most of the decorations of the home. The wedding bower was of gorgeous roses, and the girls of the bridal party carried great bouquets of them, and the rose decorations were effective and charming. They showed the vivid color contrasts to which we have become accustomed this spring.

The bride has never looked so lovely as in her wedding gown. She made a beautiful study and her wedding costume was the most artistic, with the most exquisite effects seen here in many months.

The gown was of satin, most wonderfully embroidered, and applied in rare lace, giving a wonderfully sheer effect, very becoming and very exquisite. The beautiful bridal veil extended almost to the edge of the train. It was of real lace, showing the most beautiful design in rose point, a veil worthy to be an heirloom down the years to come. It was a beautiful wedding costume, planned for a bride who looked very lovely and very happy.

The maid of honor, Mrs. Jack Van Slicklen (Susie Harrold), looked especially well in a gown of gold lace over gold satin, against which the American beauty roses shone out with fine effect. The bridesmaids, who were Miss Harriet Stone, Miss Josephine Johnson, Miss Marie Tyson and Miss Florence Henshaw, made a very attractive group of girls, and their costumes were specially handsome and planned along original lines. The gowns were of white satin, fashioned with coats of lace, made with the high waisted effect, and inset with coral. The trains of the gowns showed the long pointed effect so popular this year, and the girls were lovely studies as they carried great bouquets of American Beauty roses.

Many beautiful gowns were seen at the wedding, but no guest was as lovely as Mrs. Clay, who was very handsome indeed, and who was a charming study, representing rare dignity and sweet graciousness. She wore a gown of pale pink champagne, with an overdress of hand-embroidered gray marquisette.

A most attractive woman, wore a very handsome gown of black lace, over white satin.

A most charming member of the wedding party was the flower girl, little Miss Julia Crawford of New York. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harden Lake Crawford, and a niece of the bride.

She is a sweet little maid, and she was a lovely flower girl, making an attractive picture in a gown of white, beautifully French embroidered. She carried a gilded basket of pink roses, and she led the wedding procession with due dignity.

After the wedding ceremony there were congratulations and good wishes for the bride and groom, and later an elaborate wedding supper was served in the marquee, which had been built on the lawn.

It was a very picturesque marquee, with the walls screened with bamboo and fruit blossoms, and everywhere were roses, tied with great bands of pale pink tulle. The bride's table was in the center of the marquee, and was very lovely, with stunning gilt baskets filled with early dahlias in pink and white, and over the table were charming bands of tulle in cloud-like effect. Relatives and guests were seated at small tables, all of which were charming with decorations of white blossoms.

At the bride's table were Mr. and Mrs. Warren Harrold and their wedding party, and Mrs. Claus Spreckels (Ella Moon) Miss Patsy Creed, Miss Linda Brann, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Green Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Clay, Mrs. C. V. Clay, Mrs. M. M. Mink and Daniel Hobson.

Phillip Clay made an exceedingly clever speech, and he was a fine toastmaster.

Mr. Walter Hush responded to the toast to the bride and he made the theme of his remarks, "Scenes in the life of Madeline Clay."

by many of the guests, who had known the young bride and groom all their lives. There were toasts to Mrs. C. C. Clay and to Mrs. Harrold, and the wedding supper was in every way a most successful affair.

The wedding presents were very beautiful, and they made a most elaborate collection of gifts. The pattern chosen by the bride was most artistic and she has a wedding chest of silver and a collection of silver in the same pattern, unique and rare and valuable. There are bronzes and other works of art in the collection, all of which will bring happy memories of friends in the future and will help to beautify the new home of the young people.

Among the guests were many interesting people, for the wedding meant in one sense a reunion of relatives and oldtime friends. Among the most charming of the young matrons present was Mrs. Harden Crawford (Annie Clay), who came all the way from New York with her children to be present at her sister's wedding. She is lovely in many ways, with much poise and charm of manner, and her friends and relatives showed their pleasure in her presence among them again.

From Sacramento came, Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Glide (Margaret Sinclair) and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Glide (Sadie Sinclair), both very popular girls of former Friday Night days.

Among the many guests at the wedding were Mrs. Hetty Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Clay, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. James Harrold, Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. William Henshaw, Mr. and Mrs. William Pierce Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Tyson, Mr. Henry Webster, Mrs. Merrin, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bain, Mrs. William Creed, Miss Mollie Conners, Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Stone, Mrs. Harry

Meek, Mrs. William Volkman, Mr. and Mrs. William Thornton White, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chickering, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Hall, Mr. and Mrs. James Brandon Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Hawley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clinch, Mrs. R. A. Wellman, Mr. and Mrs. Wade, Dr. and Mrs. Sam Bell Wake-

The details were all beautifully planned, and the service of the hotel so perfect that on all sides were heard words of praise for the most successful tea.

Among the very attractive girls at the wedding were:

Miss Patsy Creed, Miss Elsie Everson, Miss Dorothy Taylor, Miss Irene Farrell, Miss Marion Stone, Miss Lila Kenner, Miss Helen Stone, Miss Marie McHenry, Miss Joe Schilling, Miss Lila Lovell, Miss Emily Harrold, Miss Bina Mosley, Miss Loretta Mearns.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Harrold have gone south, having shipped their automobile to Los Angeles. From there they will motor to Coronado, where no doubt many events will be arranged in their honor, as Mrs. Claus Spreckels who was formerly with Moon, has her home there. On their return from the south Mr. and Mrs. Warren Harrold will establish their home on Vernon Heights, and later they are planning to build a permanent home in the foothills.

The young people are both very popular and good wishes for their great happiness now and in the future go out to them from many friends.

One of the most picturesque receptions of the year was that given by Mrs. David Easterbrook at the Hotel in one's entertainment, and Mrs. Easterbrook chose to make a French garden as the environment for her at-home, carrying it out by way of floral decorations very successful, in the large ivory ballroom of the hotel. The ballroom was divided into a drawing-room and dining-room by a large lattice work of wisteria and trailing vines. On one side was represented the drawing-room, where Mrs. Easterbrook received her friends. This was a very attractive room, with large baskets of roses for adornment, and the restful green of potted plants added an additional note of color.

In the section devoted to the dining-room there was a specially lovely color scheme. The tea table carried a fine centerpiece in pink rhododendrons, and most fascinating candy baskets in dainty color tones of pink, represented the artistic work of the chef of the hotel. Large rhododendrons were grouped around the walls and the effect was wonderfully picturesque. A beautiful orchestra rendered delightful music, and refreshments were perfectly served at small tables, beautifully decorated.

Mrs. Easterbrook wore an extremely handsome reception gown of white satin, with an elaborate overdress of black lace, and she carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. Beautiful diamond ornaments completed a very artistic costume. A large receiving party of Mrs. Easterbrook's special friends assisted her in receiving the many guests of the afternoon.

Among the many prominent people at the reception were:

Mrs. Isaac Roqua, Mrs. George De Golla, Mrs. Isaac Goodall, Mrs. J. P. Neill, Mrs. A. E. Sharon, Mrs. T. C. Coogan, Mrs. William Hays, Mrs. John Baker, Mrs. Frank K. Mott, Mrs. Edgar Bishop, Mrs. Gordon Stoll, Mrs. Harry Anderson, Mrs. C. S. Chamberlain, Mrs. Mollie Brown, Mrs. A. C. Posey, Mrs. H. C. ## NEWS OF WELL-KNOWN TRAVELERS IS INTERESTING.

Many news notes of interest came to us from our friends who are away this spring. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Peixotto (Mollie Hutchinson) are in South America. Her sisters, Mrs. William Bull Pringle and Mrs. Bernard Ransome, are in New York, and later they are going south.

Mr. Peixotto writes very entertaining letters of his journey down the South American coast. He has been recently in South Peru, and there he made a visit to the Harvard observatory. Of that he writes:

"And in the evening you may drive out over the rough country road to a bit of American soil, the observatory that Harvard University maintains here for the study of the southern heavens—and see the stars sit for their portraits, taken by its wonderful photographic telescopes. It is strange, indeed, to find this astronomer's home, so absolutely American in all its appointments, perched on the far flanks of El Misti, and there to pass an evening in the genial warmth of an enthusiastic young American's fireside."

The Peixottos have wandered far, and have seen many lands, but they return at intervals to spend some weeks with relatives, and they still call Oakland "home."

Mrs. John McNear left this week for the East, and she will sail for Europe in the near future. She will join friends in London, and the summer will be spent in a motor trip in Europe.

Mrs. Seth Mann and her stunning young daughter, Miss Dorothy Mann, are among those who will spend the holiday season in the Orient, and they are planning to sail for Japan on May first.

Mrs. John Hays is planning to return to California as soon as she has recovered from her late illness. At present she is with her nephew, Mr. John McMullen, in Sussex, England.

Mrs. Havemeyer and her daughters, the Misses Vera and Ethel Havemeyer, are spending the spring months in the East. The Misses Havemeyer were recently in Princeton, where many entertainments were arranged in their honor.

Letters from Seville tell of the many pleasant days Mr. and Mrs. Louis Montague and their son, Kenneth, are spending there. The Montagues have recently come from Germany, having spent the winter in Munich.

In Spain recently have been Mrs. William Knowles and Mrs. Oscar Sutro. They are planning to visit historical cities in France and later go to Paris.

WILDERNESS OF COLOR PROBLEMS CONFRONT US.

There never was a time in which we lived in such a wilderness of color schemes, such daring, insistent color problems. And philosophers say to us:

"If you pose as a symbolist of color and carry your philosophy into your gowns, choose amongst three masterpieces: One in blue, prefiguring constancy; another in red, signifying emotion, and a third in yellow, for the intellectual."

Many well-gowned matrons of our smart set exactly answer to these charming characteristics. And to America, from the great French modistes of the day, comes a special message:

"Natural flowers are at the moment in high favor in corsage bouquets for day wear, but with walking suits and evening gowns artificial flowers are more modish. Callor, by the way, places a rose of delicate pink, wonderfully lifelike, in the soft tulle of her oddly flat, short bodices, and

Mrs. Severina Samarelli Wins
Sensational Suit for Separation.

NEW YORK, April 25.—After months of study, Supreme Court Justice Gerard yesterday signed four pages of findings in the suit of Mrs. Severina Samarelli for separation from her husband, Dr. Gaetano F. Samarelli. The most important fact in the case was the statement that the wife was not the "marble bride" that her husband described her, but that Dr. Samarelli himself was the "marble bride." The wife obtained the decision she asked. The physician admitted practically dispossessing his wife, but alleged he had done so only when she repeatedly refused to kiss him.

Heiress Is Two

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—Gean Wingfield, who Nevada claims as its first million-dollar heiress, is among the hotel arrivals at the St. Francis Hotel. She is accompanied by her devoted parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wingfield, as baby heiresses generally are, and will spend the greater part of the California summer with her mother here. It is the baby's first visit to San Francisco and was planned months ahead with a view of affording her a change of climate. The distinction of being Nevada's first born millionaire heiress comes through her father's possession of immense wealth that was taken from the richest mines in the Sage Brush State. It is a distinction that might have fallen to Mrs. Herman Oelrichs, who is native of Nevada, but she was born before the Comstock lode yielded to her father, the late James G. Fair, sufficient wealth to place him in the category of millionaires. Miss Gean will celebrate her second anniversary in San Francisco.

Wife's Patience Ends

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 25.—A case of flight through years of abuse came to light here yesterday when Frances Gertrude Wilmut secured a divorce. The evidence tended to show that while the couple were married she had borne eighteen children had resided from the union. The wife had supported her indolent partner for thirteen years. Such treatment as being thrown down stairs and having groceries trampled at her finally resulted in the divorce proceedings.

Saved From Fall

NEW YORK, April 25.—Eighteen-year-old Margaret Donovan was saved from a 300-foot fall from the head of the statue of Liberty by her chum, Gladys Revere, who caught hold of her dress just as she was slipping from the window ledge that surrounds Miss Liberty's crown. Screaming for help, Miss Revere held on to the dress with both hands until other sightseers came to the rescue and dragged the girl to safety. Miss Donovan ventured out on the ledge on a "dare" and became dizzy.

Women More Honest

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Mrs. Annie G. Mrs. Rogers is a widely known suffragist. "I am particularly glad to name Mrs. Rogers," said Secretary Lane. "Because it is an established fact in the United States that money can be handled more safely by women than by men."

HEARTS THROWN AWAY BY
GIRLS OFTEN CAUSE DESPAIR

By LAURA JEAN LIBBEY

(Copyright, 1913, by Laura Jean Libbey.)
What is love that all the world
Talks so much about it?
What is love that neither you
Nor I can do without it?

LAURA JEAN LIBBEY.

HERE never yet was a young girl who did not have her own ideas concerning love and matrimony. She may read a whole book through on the responsibilities of matrimony, by wiseacres. The question is, how much is she influenced by them? A few words from the man she loves can rout the most earnest advice. Every girl thinks her love affair is quite different from any other.

The girl who has father, mother and loved ones at home to tell her what to do has little need of outside advice. It is the young woman who is alone in the world who grows mystified and longs for some one wiser than she to confide her love affair to. It is a solemn thing and at the same time a great privilege to be taken into the confidence of those who are eager to do right, but are not certain which way they should turn. For the outcome of it will either flood all of their after life with peace, joy and sunshine, or darken it with the heavy iron bands of cruel despair.

This should be taken into grave consideration by the one who offers a solution to their problem on love doubts. For instance, a young man and maid may fall in love with each other. His salary up to the present has only been sufficient to support himself. She asks: What shall she do—wed him or give him up?

There is a very easy matter for the one called upon to advise to answer: "Send him away, telling him to come back and renew his offer when he is earning enough to support two." This is from the standpoint of one over worldly with a widow who may have known the trials of bread winning after wedlock. The trouble is a young girl cannot see through their spectacles or any spectacles at all, as for that matter. She is guided by her heart promptings. It is well to advise: "Send him away." But what girl who loves fondly and well could bear to do it? She knows that absence instead of making his heart grow fonder, would make it so wide and so deep that he would scarcely risk crossing it. Again, he might meet some other girl who would be willing to take him and meet the conditions bravely by his side.

MEN ALL CHAINED.
Young men who are not born with golden spoons in their mouths are chained down by environment which they cannot alter at will. The poor lad who has his own way to make in the world from the time he is in his teens cannot dictate terms to his employer. If he is only steady and of a kindly disposition the girl who loves him should not be afraid to share the burden of poverty with him. Love will sweeten the tasks. Her companionship and helpfulness will stimulate his ambition. When such a young man proposes marriage a girl should think many, many times over it, ere she sends him away for a time, a decade, perhaps forever. A good, honest young man, willing to work, is king among men. A young girl should have little fear of wedding him and entrusting her future to his keeping. Do not throw away a noble heart because of a few stumbling blocks.

"Dear Miss Libbey: Do you think a young man of 20 is too young for a girl of 22? I have been keeping steady company with a young man of this age for two years. He appears to be older than he is. We are not the silly sort. I respect him very much and believe he in turn respects me. Of course, nothing has been said of the future by either of us, except little hints in fun. Some of my friends think it is all right and others think he is too young. My father says he would consent to my marrying him, but I think my mother would rather have me get some one a little older than myself. UNDECIDED."

"There are any number of marriages that have turned out most successfully and happily where the wife is older than the husband. If you are content in every other way I feel sure you would be taking no risk because of the difference in your ages."

"Dear Miss Libbey: Is it correct to go out and meet a man and go to the show with him if your parents object to him? I have promised two fellows, through a mistake, to go to church. What shall I do? B." It is entirely wrong to disobey your parents under any circumstances. Parents do not object to their daughters going to shows with young men unless they have some good grounds for their objections. You better go to church alone if you cannot straighten the misunderstanding any other way.

"Dear Miss Libbey: Not long ago I was going with a young man whom I cared for a great deal. Sometimes I allowed him to kiss me. For his sake, especially, I see now that I was wrong. Would it be wise for me to beg his pardon for what I did? I still go with him some, and I would

Oh, Girls; Look:
Theater Tickets at
"Remnant" Sale

CHICAGO, April 25.—A "remnant" sale of theater tickets was announced last night by the management of a leading downtown playhouse. Hereafter all tickets issued at 1.50 p. m. on matinee days and at 7.30 at night, will be sold at a flat rate of 50 cents. The first "remnant" sale of tickets will occur tomorrow. The regular price of tickets before 7.30 ranges from $2.50 to $5.00 and to 75 cents for the gallery. Managers of other theaters asserted that the innovation will bring about a small advance sale and a jam at the box office an hour before the curtain rises. One of the them admitted he probably would be forced "to do the same thing."

CHICAGO, April 25.—Edmund E. C. Von Klein, arrested recently on complaint of Miss Ethel Newcomb, who charged he induced her to marry him and then disappeared with her diamonds valued at $3500, was identified last night by a second woman who says she was his "dupe." She is Mrs. C. A. Temple of Little Rock, Ark., who confronted Von Klein as he came out of a cafe on Wabash avenue. Von Klein appeared confused when she greeted him, but insisted some mistake had been made. Mrs. Temple asserts Von Klein, under the name of Weaver B. Clark, took her to Milwaukee six months ago where they were to be married. She says he disappeared on the day set for the wedding with her jewelry, valued at $5600.

JACK LONDON TO ACT
HIS TALES IN MOVIES

LOS ANGELES, April 25.—Jack London, author, adventurer, sociologist, will enact in motion pictures here all of his novels and short stories, giving them, in his red-blooded manner, "the punch" that has made his stories famous. Yesterday he completed a deal in this city which will dramatize the exclusive use of London's stories in motion pictures all over the world. "I have just completed a deal," said London, "by which I shall appear as the leading actor in all my own stories and novels dramatized into motion pictures. I am going into the pictures to give them 'the punch' that is almost impossible to communicate to another. Will it mean fortune to me? Well, I have two or three Jersey cows for my Valley of the Moon ranch with the proceeds."

Auburn, N. Sometimes I would suffer for seven hours at a time. Different doctors did the best they could for me until four months ago I began giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and now I am in good health."—Mrs. WILLIAM H. GILL, 15 Pleasant Street, Auburn, N. Y.

"Doctor's Daughter Took It."
St. Cloud, Minn.—"I was so run down by overwork and worry that I could not stand it to have my children talk aloud or walk heavy on the floor. One of my friends said, 'Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I know a doctor's daughter here in town who takes it and she would not take it if it were not good.' I sent for the Compound at once and kept on taking it until I was all right."—Mrs. BERTHA M. QUICKSTADT, 727 5th Avenue, S., St. Cloud, Minn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be relied upon as the most efficient remedy for female ills. Why don't you try it?

BEAUTIFUL SIMPLICITY

By LILLIAN RUSSELL
(Copyrighted, 1913, by Lillian Russell.)

THE charm of simplicity is a thing which cannot be bought but can be cultivated. In dress and house decoration, as in manner, a little less ostentation is appreciated far more than a little too much. We often hear of a woman spoken of as having the great charm of naturalness and simplicity. Such a woman does not overdress, nor does she talk too much; she never calls attention to her ornaments, either personal or decorative. As a hostess she is never guilty of inviting to her table more persons than can be comfortably seated, nor does she try any new food concoctions upon them; rather will she serve them with old and well-proved dishes. Innovations should be tried and tested privately before inflicting them upon unsuspecting guests. There is nothing so detestable to a visitor as a family argument at table, and the man who tries to embarrass his wife while she is entertaining is guilty of an unpardonable sin. A charming atmosphere at a dinner table is never achieved by magnificence or a display of money. It is only found in homes where the hostess understands the art of simplicity.

Too many flowers on a table make the air in a dining-room heavy, and conversation lags in consequence. Esthetic Italians never place flowers upon the dinner table, less their odor lessens the exquisite aroma of the viands served. The high-class Japanese place no flowers upon a table at the beginning of a dinner, but have them brought in with coffee when all else is removed from the table, a delightfully simple and esthetic idea. A room too full of furniture is as inartistic as a hostess who is overdressed. For a home dinner a woman should study simplicity in dress. A simple white or delicate gray clinging gown is always beautiful. One beautiful jewel is enough for ornament. The study of effect should be guided by perspective. Take away all that destroys symmetry of outline; rather go about your rooms and clear away superfluous ornaments than add more to them. One flower in a vase is more beautiful than an indiscriminate mass of them. Be greatly simple, not "simply great."

A beautifully lighted room is a study in itself. Green and blue lights should be avoided always. Both of those colors when reflected upon even a matchless complexion have the power to destroy all coloring and make a perfectly healthy person appear in the last stages of illness. Soft rose colored shades and pale gold both add brilliancy and softness to the most sallow complexions. We all know that candle light is not only the most becoming, but the most restful to the eyes; therefore study for such an effect, subdue strong lights and avoid darkness. Darkened rooms put a mysterious thought in the minds of people which hushes their voices as well as their intellect.

The best effects are gained by not striving for them. The woman who is the most desired hostess is the one who can be understood by her sweet simplicity. One always knows that her dinners are wholesome; that her rooms do not offend; that she will not overdress her guests, and, above all, that her surroundings will be harmonious. Music at home dinners is only a part of ostentation. There should be no more music required than is furnished by witty and intelligent conversation. Remember, a person who strives to entertain is not entertaining.

Answers to Queries
MISS K. I.: Abrupt changes in temperature, both of air and water, are very irritating. In washing the skin of the face the first step should be to wash the hands thoroughly, then pour out this water and use perfectly fresh pure water for the face. Various troubles are caused by rubbing the soiled hands over the face, for although you may not be conscious of it, the hands harbor many microbes, even when you think they are comparatively clean, and these you may easily rub into the skin of the face if you handle it very much. After bathing do not go

He pointed out that in many instances these postmasters were appointed or reappointed and allowed to serve several months and in some cases for years without receiving a commission. He asks a ruling that will hold that postmasters' terms expire four years from the date they entered the service or four years from the time their last commission expired.

exercise for getting rid of a double chin, and will improve the throat wonderfully. I would not advise you to stretch the skin on your face, as you say you do, for this will make the skin baggy and flabby in time. If you care for instructions for massage I shall be glad to send them to you. so they should be taken out by a dentist. Many cases of uneven and badly set teeth are due to neglect in this matter. To remove tartar a little milk of magnesia, or if preferred the powdered form, may be used—the latter being cheaper. To remove the tartar dampen the tooth brush with warm water, sprinkle a little powdered magnesia on the brush, and rub the tooth upon which the tartar appears. Should it have been on the tooth for some time a second application may be necessary, but in most cases one will be sufficient. Tartar never should be allowed to remain on the teeth, as it not only helps to decay them but often is the cause of toothache.

TROUBLED: Don't, I beg of you, attempt to use peroxide on your hair. It will bleach it and make it a dirty blonde color, also make the hair dry and harsh and without life. It will cause your hair to break. It may make the hair a very golden color at first, but it will soon disappear and your hair will become dirty and dull looking.

B. L.: Throwing the head back with force and then turning it from side to side, is an excellent one immediately into the air, but wait a little while, for the delicate face skin should be protected against sudden changes, and especially against cold. Always keep a separate wash cloth for your face, and, indeed, it is well to have two for this purpose, one for the soap and one for the clear water. Don't use a sponge, for it harbors bacteria, and you cannot keep it clean. After using the cloth wash it and put it into boiling water. Keep it clean!

HUERTA TROOPS CAPTURE TOWN OF REATA

ADVANCE ON MONCLOVA

500 Rebel Followers of Carranza Fail to Dislodge Federals.

Federal Soldiers Driven From Mexico by Insurrectos to Re-enter Field.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Reata, south of Monclova, stronghold of the Carranzista forces, has been occupied by Huerta troops under General Lopez, according to official dispatches by way of Ciudad Juarez. The federals are reported to be in force preparing for immediate advance on Monclova.

The advance of the federal troops on Coahuila is regarded as an indication that the forward movement promised by Huerta is now in progress.

The two hundred Huerta troops detained at El Paso will be held there until next week, when it will be determined if they shall be permitted to re-enter Mexico. The government has decided not to interfere but on request of Senator Mark Smith, of Arizona, reconsidered.

TO BAR FOREIGN CATTLE.

NOGALES, Ariz., April 25.—Simultaneously with the lifting of the quarantine bar against Mexican cattle by the Department of Agriculture, the Treasury Department instructed Custom Collector Cornelius O'Keefe today to bar all foreign cattle of doubtful ownership. This order bears directly upon the stock confiscated by the rebels and government and offered for sale to provide war funds.

TO FIGHT CONSTITUTIONALISTS.

EL PASO, Tex., April 25.—Federal soldiers driven from Mexico by the insurrectos of Sonora arrived here last night to be transported to Juarez, Mexico, again to enter the field against the Constitutionalists of Chihuahua. But although the movement of 217 men and seventeen officers was permitted from Naco, Ariz., sudden orders from the war department prevented the crossing of the Mexican border to Juarez. A troop of cavalry hurried from Fort Bliss, and held the disarmed soldiers, who had arrived on a special train expecting to proceed directly over the line.

Constitutionalist agents at Nogales, Arizona, and other points on the border had protested to the governors of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona and their senators at Washington, asserting that the federal refugees were being moved to Juarez to which they would be transported by attack. The same objection had been raised against the attempt of the Huerta government to send the troops to Guaymas, now besieged. Arms taken from the refugees soldiers were turned over to the Mexican consul at Juarez, Ariz., to be shipped in bond to Juarez.

HASTEN TO CALIFORNIA.

TUCSON, Ariz., April 25.—Demonstrations of constitutionalist sympathies occasioned the removal of General Pedro Ortiz and his officers from their hotel here during last night and today hastened their departure for Los Angeles, Cal.

General Ojeda, Lieutenant Colonel Villaseca, several captains and twelve lieutenants left this morning for California, whence they expect to sail for Guaymas.

REBELS FAIL.

LAREDO, Tex., April 25.—Five hundred rebels, followers of Venustiano Carranza, made an unsuccessful attempt yesterday to dislodge General Tracy Aubert's federal troops at Lampazos, Mex., according to Americans who came to the border today in an automobile. The battle, fought in the outskirts of Lampazos, began early in the afternoon and continued until sundown. About ten of the rebels and the same number of federals were killed. The party reported that they encountered several bands of rebels on route from Lampazos but no attempt was made to molest them. They saw the bodies of six men hanging from telegraph poles along the route.

DENIED

The R. R. Commission Decides Against Southern Pacific Company.

Danger to Passengers' Argument Presented Matter for U. S. Government.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—The State Railroad Commission this morning denied application of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for a rehearing in the action begun by the corporation to have the fare on the Oakland harbor ferry, known as the Creek route, increased from 5 cents to 10 cents for passengers. In asking for a reconsideration of the original decision denying the application for an advance of the tariff, the Southern Pacific calls attention to the large number of passengers patronizing the Creek route who would ordinarily use either one of the other ferries to the Oakland and Alameda docks as the fare was the same. They remark that the presence on the Harbor route ferry of large numbers of automobiles carrying a great quantity of gasoline is a menace to the lives of the passengers, and it is on this ground that the rehearing was prayed for.

CONTROLLED BY GOVERNMENT.

The commission today holds that the regulation of explosives and the safety appliances for passengers on ship board matters coming under the control of the Federal Government. The commission declares that it has no power to legislate in regard to the matter, referring the consideration of the subject to the United States officials, and denies the petition for the rehearing.

This means that the present 5-cent rate of fare will be continued, unless the federal authorities should determine that an increase would reduce the number of passengers and lessen the hazard. In that event it is thought that passengers other than those riding in automobiles or on teams would be forbidden altogether.

ALL AGREED BABY
RESEMBLED PAPA

Allegations of Infidelity Made by Plaintiff Not Supported by Evidence.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—Two startling features characterize the divorce hearing of Edward Duarte, who is suing his wife, Maria, before Superior Judge Graham. The first remarkable disclosure was the statement of the young wife that she had been bought by her husband for $25 when she was 14 years old, the sale being accomplished through her grandmother when she lived in Philadelphia. The second thrill which was given the assembled spectators came when Duarte, who has accused his better half of infidelity, charged that the two weeks' old infant carried by Mrs. Duarte was not his child. The woman was on the witness stand, and Judge Graham, picking up the babe, fondled it and gazed at it curiously and audibly affirmed that it was the very image of Duarte.

He then called a committee of three women from among the spectators, Mrs. Elizabeth Allen, Miss Mary Costello and Miss J. Van Beek. After they had appraised the infant, they reached the unanimous verdict that the shape of its head resembled that of the plaintiff and that its hair was exactly the same shade as that of Duarte.

Mrs. Duarte said she did not love her spouse, to whom she was married in July, 1905. The court continued the case for one week in order that he might question the 4-year-old child of the couple.

BATTERY B AT TARGET PRACTICE
GUNS BOOM AND SHRAPNEL FLIES

SCENE AT THE CAMP OF BATTERY B AND (INSET) ONE OF THE GUNS IN ACTION DURING THE FIRING OF SHRAPNEL TODAY.

Record Is Expected by the Army Officers in Charge

Camped in the shelter of a grove of eucalyptus trees Battery B of Oakland is out for the first target practice it has ever had. The range extends for 2500 yards diagonally across the camp and directly sketched figures concealed from the two three inch pieces of Battery B behind two ranges of hills are being fired at with the regulation shrapnel furnished by the government.

The arrival of Adjutant General E. A. Forbes this morning was the signal for the firing of a salute of eleven guns. While this was going on the horses most of which are unused to heavy firing could not be held and started on the run dragging pieces and caissons across the meadow in front of the camp. They were managed by the riders before they had gone far.

HAVE FULL EQUIPMENT.

In the outfit are thirty-eight commissioned officers, sixty privates and seventy-two head of horses. A full army equipment has been furnished Battery B by the government in addition to the shrapnel with the exception of a chaplain, which commission is at present open for volunteers. While on the maneuver which will last today and tomorrow officers and men will receive the pay of the regular army which is allowed by the federal government and Major E. A. Stearns, paymaster of the National Guard of California, has announced that the pay will be received on Sunday afternoon.

Captain E. H. Yule of the regular army is presenting the firing problems and Captain Harry F. Huber, who is directing the battery expects to make a record despite the fact that most of his gunners have never before participated in anything more realistic than the firing of salutes. The guns themselves have never been used except for that purpose since they left the arsenal to be turned over to Battery B, which mustered in 1911.

Major R. J. Faneuf, of the First Battalion of Field Artillery, is commanding officer while Lieutenant C. J. Hogan is detailed as officer of the day. Other officers present are: Colonel D. A. Smith of the Fifth Infantry; Lieutenant Colonel Robert H. Nobel, chief of militia affairs of the western division; Colonel George A. Schastey and staff of the coast artillery guard; Major C. A. Dukes, brigade surgeon; Captain W. F. Petersen, Captain H. N. Howe, Captain C. F. Armstrong, Captain R. A. Ford, Captain J. C. Hanley, Lt. J. J. Montgomery, Lieutenant H. C. Powell, Lieutenant J. W. White, Lieutenant C. J. Hogan and Lieutenant H. A. Enefer. Lieutenant E. E. Vicary of Battery B; Lieutenant J. McComas, Lieutenant E. H. Montgomery and Lieutenant H. C. Powell of Battery A of Los Angeles; Lieutenant O. E. Sandman, Lieutenant A. M. Clark, Lieutenant C. H. Young of Battery C of Stockton; Captain J. C. Hanley of the National Guard and Veterinary J. A. Hill.

WIL EAT CHICKEN.

A chicken dinner on Sunday is to be the big event of the day. This is in accordance with the custom in national guard maneuvers, and is further understood to be the wish of Adjutant General Forbes. Captain Huber would not admit that he had received orders that the men were to have a chicken dinner, but since the depleted poultry coups in the vicinity of Alameda and subsequent investigation in the ranks of the Red Army of last year with no blame placed, it is considered good generalship to provide chicken.

Just how much the adjutant general paid for the foraging expeditions of the Reds has never been learned, but there are officers among the N. G. C. who say that it is economy and tends to good conduct to let the men know that they will be fed the farm bird. Be it said to the credit of Battery B that it was in the Blue Army.

Last night in camp was not without comedy and perhaps sentiment. A party of officers were seen strolling in the vicinity of the exclusive gardens of Mills College. It may have been a reconnoitering detachment, although there was nothing known of such a detail.

CHINESE HIEROGLYPHICS.

Before the tents of Major Faneuf and Colonel Smith were placed boards covered with Chinese hieroglyphics which proclaimed them veterans of the Boxer uprising and as a testimonial of the high regard in which Captain Huber is held by his men a combination picture frame was left on his tent pole during the night. The chances of pastiches in person as well as war were nearly realized by Battery B when Captain Huber with his staff was making a selection for their camp. The water of a very unappealing looking spring which was brought to Oakland in a bottle by Captain Huber and given to Dr. Pauline Nussbaum for examination was pronounced to contain enough typhoid bacteria to kill the Bulgarian allies and the Turks combined.

NONE FAVOR PEACE.

After breakfast this morning, despite a sleepless night, none of the guardsmen could be found who were in favor of international peace. Mush and milk, steak and ham and eggs, savory coffee with bread butter, potatoes and apples as desert, made up the bill of fare, and the cook, who knows of long experience how much men eat in the woods, found appetites that all but exhausted his ample stock. The firing in direct and indirect laying continued on Sunday, but no visitors will be allowed closer than a hundred yards of the battery. The range is situated on the old Hewston ranch now owned by C. M. Macgregor and is reached by the Mills college cars.

Tonight the officers will attend the benefit picnic for the benefit of the Spanish-American war monument fund at Shellmound park in a body.

WEEP AS THIEVES
RECEIVE SENTENCE

Accessories Collapse When Shea and Siverling Get Five Years.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—Patrick Shea and Bert Siverling stood before Superior Judge Dunne this morning and were sentenced to five years each in San Quentin penitentiary, while Maud Mackey, alias Maud Shea, who has lived with the former as his wife for many years, and Mrs. Siverling cried piteously, their screams resounding through the courtroom.

Within the short space of 40 days after the arrest of Siverling, Shea, the Mackey woman and Ethel Clifton, in their room on Stanyan street, where $10,000 worth of loot was discovered, the male members of the gang were on their way to a penitentiary cell.

The offense chosen for the trial was the burglary of Cherry's department store on Mission street on March 14. The gang, with the exception of Miss Clifton, pleaded guilty. Today Miss Clifton was not present as she is ill at the city and county hospital, but the other three were on hand. When the men were sentenced Mrs. Mackey collapsed and shivered in hysteria. Mrs. Siverling was also moved to tears and was led from the courtroom. When a motion for probation was made in behalf of the Mackey woman and her case continued for two weeks she was conducted to the corridor, where she fell fainting to the floor.

Feigning to be loving couples the quartette would stand in front of stores within citizens passed by believing them to be spooning, and then when the opportunity presented itself the door would be flung and suitcases full of finery stolen.

PIONEER BUILDER
OF STATE IS DEAD

Augustin Daly Passes Away as Result of Apoplexy.

Augustin G. Daly, a pioneer architect and builder of this state, known as "Pop" to the members of the sporting world, died today at the home of his son, 214 East Fourteenth street. His death was the result of a stroke of apoplexy. He was 77 years of age.

Many large buildings throughout California stand as monuments to his memory. Prior to the earthquake of 1906 he erected the old Savoy hotel and the Donahue bank of San Francisco besides numerous structures which he built in the early days.

In 1849 he migrated from St. Louis and settled in America, where he lived for a number of years. Later he made his home in Sacramento where he engaged in the liquor business.

For the past seven years he has resided in this city, where he was keenly interested in its growth. He was a liberal contributor to charitable organizations.

The decedent was a lover of sports and was fond of horses. He was the father-in-law of Frank R. Eckert, formerly a prominent horse owner of this city.

He is survived by six children: Oscar A. Daly, a decorator; Mrs. Charles A. Hartman, Mrs. Frank R. Eckert of Duluth, Montana; W. J. Daly, a builder; John T. Daly, a decorator of Chicago, and Gustaf F. Daly, a musician.

The funeral will be held Tuesday morning in St. Anthony's church of East Oakland, where a solemn high mass will be celebrated. The interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

ARREST HOTEL MAN.
Fernando Deler, 748 Macadam street, was arrested last night by Sergeant John Fahy and Patrolmen Blewett, Maxey and Downey for selling liquor in violation of the city ordinance. Deler is a lodging house keeper.

Widowed Parent Fails in Effort to Save Offspring in a Flaming Shed.

BOISE, Idaho, April 25.—Earl and Herman Schultz, four and six years old, and Willie Chapman, aged four, are dead, and Mrs. George W. Chapman, the widowed mother of one of the children, is badly burned as the result of a fire started by the boys who were playing with matches today in a shed partially filled with waste paper.

The children were trapped, as the only exit was through a small opening near the top of the shed, through which they had crawled. The mother was burned while trying to save them.

TWO ARE SAVED
FROM TOMB
IN MINE

Rescue Party Passes Them Many Times Before Discovery Is Made.

Almost 100 Bodies Are Taken From the Ill-fated Workings.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 25.—The emergency rescue crew from the Pittsburgh station of the government bureau of mines was withdrawn from the Cincinnati mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company near Finleyville, Pa., where an explosion occurred last Wednesday night in the neighborhood of 100 men lost their lives.

Five bodies were brought out this morning and removed to the Monongahela morgue for identification, making a total of 93 bodies removed from the mine, forty of which have been identified.

TAKEN OUT ALIVE.

Charles Crawl and Philip Lether, the men taken out of the mine alive last night, were getting along very well at the Monongahela hospital today. Members of the crew said today that the men were found in a part of the workings where the air was good.

Although they did not know it, the rescue party had passed within a few yards of them a number of times without their knowledge. Officials of the mine are of the opinion that there are more men alive in the mine.

That the two men survived the explosion and poisonous gases of the mine for sixty hours is considered miraculous.

After the expert helmetmen and mine inspectors had left the mine late last night, J. C. McVickens and Clyde Gibson, members of the coal company's rescue crew, entered the mine to search for bodies. When they reached a point two and a half miles from the entrance they heard a faint cry. An investigation disclosed the two miners alive in the mine.

SEEMED LIKE WEEK.
The rescuers carried and dragged the miners to the pit mouth. Crawl, when he reached the surface, cried: "It seems as if I had been in there a week."

Crawl and Legler were taken to a hospital at Monongahela. Crawl is a survivor of the Marianne mine disaster of November 28, 1908, when 140 lives were lost. In that explosion Crawl lost his right eye.

At the hospital he told of his experience.

"I entered the mine at 6:20 Wednesday morning. Legler and I were eating lunch in the room where we were found when shortly after 12:30 Wednesday afternoon we heard a dull explosion, which seemed to be far away. I began to get nervous when I did not hear the other miners at work and I went to investigate.

FINDS MANY DEAD.

"I found dead miners lying all around and then I knew how severe the explosion had been. Remembering my former experience I told Legler to follow me and I crawled into the mine working in an effort to find a way out. I think we had been crawling 52 hours. In that time we had only a slice of bread apiece and we quenched our thirst with sulphur water from the mine floor. We crawled and crawled and couldn't find any way out."

"I gave up hope of ever getting out alive several times, but as long as my strength lasted I pushed on. Legler wanted to lie down and die, but I urged him on. In room 23, entry 10, we found an old man and his son. They were alive but could not move. We tried to carry them, but their weight was too great and we were exhausted. When we left the old man and his son my mind seemed to wander, but I held to Legler's hand and in some way we got back to where I had started from after the explosion."

Brain Pressure Not
To Blame for Theft

Operation Fails to Disclose the Abnormality of Youth's Skull.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 25.—Harry Morris hopes that a surgical operation would lead him from a path of crime vanished today and the young prisoner in the county jail went when informed that an examination of X-ray photographs of his skull had shown no bone pressure on the brain or other abnormality that might provoke criminal tendencies.

Morris repeatedly has been arrested for larceny. He said he could not help stealing and begged that experts be appointed to examine his head.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—Mrs. Myrtle Smith, wife of Walter Smith, assistant manager of a hotel, today has succeeded in hiding her husband following her desertion of her husband, that even money sent to her did not find her. The largest bequest is that of $250,000 to the China island missions, Philadelphia.

SUFFRAGETTES
AGAIN STORM
CAPITAL

Noted Leaders Present Arguments Why Women Should Have Ballot.

Gifford Pinchot Declares That "Equal Suffrage Is Coming."

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Suffragists, for the second time in a week, today stormed the capitol to argue why women should have the ballot and be admitted to suffrage on the same plane as men through the adoption of a constitutional amendment. In approaching the Senate committee the suffragists had brought along some of the heaviest artillery.

Among those present to plead for equal suffrage was Mrs. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National American Women's Suffrage Association. She was seconded by Miss Helen V. Boswell, president of the Women's National Republican Association; Mrs. Harvey Wiley, wife of the former pure food chief; Mrs. William Kent, wife of the Representative from California, and several others.

Two Senators—Shafroth of Colorado and Brady of Idaho—and the wives of two members of the upper house of Congress also were ready to advance arguments for the "cause." The women were Mrs. Robert M. La Follette and Mrs. Sutherland of Utah. Representative Bryan of Washington state also was among the speakers.

MRS. LA FOLLETTE SPEAKS.

Mrs. La Follette argued that women were as vitally interested in tariff legislation as the men and declared that every important piece of legislation before Congress in the last 25 years had affected women equally.

Miss Helen Varick Bower argued that a federal law would be the quickest and surest way to procure equal suffrage and Mrs. William Kent said that women suffrage had worked well in California.

Dr. Shaw made the concluding argument.

"We are not afraid of the body of ladies who are going up and down the land opposing suffrage," said she. "They are just enough in number to make a screen for the men operating dens of vice and iniquity and prostitution to hide behind. In every state where women now vote, suffrage was opposed by those who proposed to make this country a place of safety, where parents can see their daughters go to school in the morning and feel that they will return, and where a man need not fear to send his little girl on an errand through city streets."

"We will come again and again and our grandchildren will come until this is a democracy in fact."

Gifford Pinchot made a brief speech. "Of course we all know that actual suffrage is coming; the only question is in what form," he concluded.

SET FIRE TO TRAIN.

LONDON, April 25.—A militant suffragette "arson squad" set fire to a train standing on a siding of the Southwestern railway at Teddington, on the Thames, outside London, early this morning. Little damage was done, however, as no arrests were made. Quantities of oil and other combustible, suffragette literature and post cards addressed to members of the House of Commons were found in the car where the fire started.

FAMILY PROPERTY SOUGHT BY COOPER

Declares His Own Property Is Stored With McKinley Relics.

Whether or not there is to be a compromise settlement for the possession of the McKinley family belongings, which are now in storage in this city and the objects of a lawsuit is a matter yet to be determined upon, according to Harry R. Cooper, widower of the late Ida Morse Cooper, in whose possession the goods now are.

That he is merely fighting the suit in order to retain possession of certain articles belonging to his own family and which are at present included in the list of McKinley belongings, was a statement made today by Cooper.

Eight months ago I made an offer to Mr. Grace McKinley Heldt, cousin of Mrs. L. M. McKinley Heldt and representative of the McKinley family, who resides in Atlanta, Georgia, whereby she could obtain the McKinley goods for the payment of a mortgage of $300 which my wife placed upon them. I am now fighting for certain belongings of my own family which are among the lot and which my opponents are seeking to obtain. That is the reason that I had the boxes stored under another name. I learned that Col. Kowalsky representing Mrs. Heldt had made arrangements to obtain the belongings and to hold an auction sale for the purpose of turning them into cash. I will show this in court. Mrs. Heldt wants them for that reason I believe.

OFFER MADE LONG AGO.
As to the offer which he said he made eight months ago, Cooper refused to state whether it still holds good.

"At the time I made the offer I did not want to bear the expense of court action," he explained.

Mrs. Heldt of Atlanta and Mrs. Heldt who is at present in California to press her suit for the late president's belongings are cousins and at the same time sisters-in-law as they married brothers.

It was Mrs. Ida McKinley Morse, niece of President McKinley, who broke the bottle of champagne over the bows of the battleship Ohio when it was launched in San Francisco. An engraved gold station received by President McKinley to the launching is one of the belongings which his grand niece seeks to possess.

The stipulation of attorneys for the contestants, the testimony of Dr. W. H. Huntington, who attended Mrs. Cooper during her last illness, was taken before Judge before Judge Burroughs. He told of Mrs. Cooper's condition prior to her death. The case will be heard next Monday morning in the Extra Sessions.

JORDAN'S CLERK GIVES TESTIMONY

Mrs. Anita Brewer Resumes
Witness Stand in Sacramento Inquiry.

SACRAMENTO, April 26.—Mrs. Anita Brewer, the clerk in Secretary of State Frank Jordan's office who was threatened Thursday with punishment for contempt of the legislative investigating committee, resumed the stand again yesterday.

Mrs. Brewer testified that she had now in her possession $4000 in currency and that she had drawn the $1500 from the banks because she feared an effort would be made to take her money from her. She refused repeatedly to tell where the cash was or to say whether or not it was in a safe deposit box in any bank. The amount she said, represented earnings accumulated over a long period.

The board of control wishes to trace the money Mrs. Brewer has earned in the secretary of state's office by furnishing lists of automobile registrations to regular customers as so much as a.

Special Examiner Roche and several of the committeemen were interested in the fact that Mrs. Brewer had lent money to Secretary Jordan and last night developed as much light upon the subject as they could by examination of the witness. Mrs. Brewer said that she had not only lent money to Jordan, but also to many of her fellow deputies, keeping no account, except mentally, and without taking notes, of the amounts. She said she could not recall or estimate the aggregate of the sums she had lent Jordan from time to time, but that at present he owed her only $275.

LATEST NEWS FROM OUTSIDE TOWNS

MANY VOTES ARE
CAST IN RACE
FOR FETE QUEEN

MISS MARGARET HOENIGS.

MELROSE, April 26.—With the queen contest well under way the Melrose carnival committee appointed by Fruitvale Aerle, No. 1375, Order of Eagles, can now pay more attention to the other important features connected with the great festival, which will transform Melrose into a veritable fun city from May 27 to 31.

The uncertainty of the issue of the contest has given added zest to the rivalry of the fair aspirants, and each as she sees her votes go up by leaps and bounds is confident of ultimate success. One of the surprises of the contest is the speed with which the newcomer Miss Margaret Hoenigman has made up the big leeway which separated her from the other contestants. Miss Hoenigman started with a useful 2000, and the next count showed that she had amassed 10,000 votes.

The position of the contestants at the last count of the contest was: Miss Bertha Stadler, 17,354; Miss Jessie Frankholt, 17,255; Miss Vivian Gostlin, 17,238; Miss Margaret Hoenigman, 10,014; Miss Sadie Roston, 9275; Miss Emma Cook, 8235; Miss Ruth Zeiser, 7610. Announcement of the winner of the queen contest will be made at a dance to be given by the Eagles hall committee May 21.

The election, which will be called by the trustees as the result of a petition presented at the last meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, will probably be held some time during the next month. On the occasion of the last no license election San Leandro voted against the closing of the saloons.

HERE'S STUFF THAT PUTS ANTS ON RUN

Every housewife knows how disagreeable it is to have the premises infested with ants.

These pesky crawlers are continually getting into the sugar, the jam and the preserves. It is safe to say that all ants have the proverbial "sweet tooth."

But ant troubles of the household culinary department do not end with the ants getting into chinks and crevices in walls, living rooms, bed rooms, bath rooms—everywhere. They are a constant menace to comfort, and their bite is dangerous, sometimes fatal, whose prompt action in effecting arrests has acted as a deterrent to crime.

WIFE OF DR. E. L. WEMPLE DIVORCED

Charged Cruelty of Chief Medical Inspector of S. F.
Schools.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—Dr. E. L. Wemple, chief medical inspector of schools of the San Francisco board of health, was divorced by his wife, Mrs. Lisa B. Wemple, in Superior Judge Canabara's court today after he had heard of extreme cruelties practiced on her claims, by the physician. Before her marriage Mrs. Wemple was Miss Lisa B. Bambooster and was quite prominent in the smart set. She is a tall, handsome woman and appeared in court fashionably attired and told her story on the witness stand smilingly. She said that Dr. Wemple had been in the habit of coming home late at night, excited and angry and used to talk to her with accepting attention from other men. She declared also that he used to leave home suddenly neglecting his creditors and thereby greatly humiliating her. To continue her marriage existence with the physician, she said, would destroy her happiness, ruin her health and be dangerous and unsafe to her. After she had given her evidence she asked permission to resume her maiden name which was granted her.

The couple were married September 14, 1909, and for a long time lived happily together. Dr. Wemple has long been prominent in the medical profession and lives at 775 Bush street, a fashionable apartment. When the wife decided to sue for divorce following their separation last January, the complaint was placed on the secret files, but for today's court proceedings the actual cause of the marital troubles of the couple would never have been known.

DELIVERS LECTURE ON 'PASSION PLAY'

Miller, president of the club, who acted as master of ceremonies.

Miss Brown has made a careful study of the Passion play which she witnessed in 1910 in the Bavarian Alps. In an artistic manner she presented the story of the play, its origin and historical significance. The slides were made in Europe and the photographs were collected by Miss Brown.

COURT RESTRAINS ROUSSEAU'S WIFE

That Mrs. Minnie H. Rousseau has taken advantage of the sound mind of her husband, Sol Rousseau, to obtain deeds to valuable property situated in Oakland and Berkeley which belonged to his individual estate is the allegation of Joseph L. Dumontier, who has been appointed guardian of Rousseau in an effort to regain the property and to prevent the wife from securing the remainder of his large land holdings.

As the result of a petition in the Superior court, Judge Dumontier appointed a restraining order preventing her from accepting any more deeds pending the settlement of the case in court.

One of the pieces of property to which it is alleged Mrs. Rousseau obtained deed is located at Telegraph avenue and Knox street. In addition there are a large number of others located in different parts of Oakland and Alameda.

HENRY BONNELL WILL BE FILED FOR PROBATE

A petition has been filed with the Superior court of Alameda county by F. L. Woodburn, an attorney of San Francisco, for the probate of the will of late Henry Bonnell. Bonnell was for many years in the business of searching records in San Francisco and other counties and was known among this men as the "King of the Searchers." He was brother of the late Edwin Bonnell formerly of the San Francisco Savings Union and of Mrs. J. T. Conran of Oakland, and uncle of Mrs. Frank H. Dunne, wife of Superior Judge Dunne of San Francisco. All of his records and notes were preserved in the great fire and he retired soon after from active business. He leaves an estate valued at $35,000 which is willed to his sister and niece.

MAINE MONUMENT BENEFIT DRAWS CROWD TO PARK

Attractive Program Entertains Thongs at Shell Mound

Spanish War Veterans and their friends gathered at Shell Mound Park in an immense throng this afternoon at the benefit given by the veterans to assist in raising funds for the national Maine Monument to be dedicated at New York City on the coming Memorial Day. Long before the hour of 2 o'clock, the time set for the exercises to commence, people began filling into the grounds and the United States Department Commander B. A. Forrester, U. S. W. V., opened the exercises. It was estimated that at least 5000 persons had gone through the gates. The weather was ideal for a large outpouring of people and every camp within a radius of twenty miles was well represented.

In his opening address Commander Forrester explained the purpose of the benefit. He also congratulated the United Spanish War Veterans upon the splendid showing they had made and the patriotism that had been evinced in their efforts to help pay off the indebtedness on the national Maine monument.

FREE-FOR-ALL EVENTS.
There was a number of free-for-all events in which the general public took part, and which created much informal amusement. Dancing was kept up in the big pavilion during the progress of the sports and speeches and attracted a large number of devotees who preferred to indulge in that pastime.

Altogether it was declared to be one of the largest and best represented gatherings ever made by the United Spanish War Veterans in this state, and was in the nature of a reunion of the camps which next week will meet in their annual encampment at Venice.

BOBBY LACKS THAT PUNCH POPPY-LIKE

Wheelmen's Club Lands Biggest Match Yet Brought to Oakland

BURNS AND WOLGAST OVER TEN-ROUND ROUTE MAY 21

Frankie Comes to Time When He Sees Azaveda Preparing to Cop Opportunity.

(By THE TIMEKEEPER.)
FRANKIE BURNS and Ad Wolgast, announced in last night's "green" edition, were matched yesterday afternoon to box at the Wheelmen's club on the night of May 21. The boys have agreed to weigh in at 125 pounds at 8 o'clock on the afternoon of the contest, which is the first time that Burns and Wolgast have been matched since the former was a member of the club. Burns, who is a native of the city, is a former champion of the city and has won many titles. Wolgast, who is a native of the city, is a former champion of the city and has won many titles. The match is expected to be a close one, as both boys are well known in the city.

THE ANGEL CHOIR, WHICH IS NOW LEADING THE LEAGUE CHORUS

BOBBY HAD BETTER TRY FOR THE SOFT STUFF ELSEWHERE

Will Never Draw $2000 Here Again Unless Against Man Who Will Put Him Out.

(By THE TIMEKEEPER.)
Bobby McAllister and his brother Al are well known in the city for their boxing. Bobby, who is a native of the city, is a former champion of the city and has won many titles. Al, who is a native of the city, is a former champion of the city and has won many titles. The match is expected to be a close one, as both boys are well known in the city.

SEALS CAN'T WIN TWICE STRAIGHT; HOPE OAKS CAN

Ody Abbott Whales Three Out of Four Substituting for Zacher

By BILLY FITZ.
O, friends, it can't be did! The Oaks may stop the Tigers, and the Ducks may bother the Wolves a bit, but the Seals simply cannot win two games in succession. They have demonstrated the fact time and again, until the fans expect the day after victory. They got what they expected yesterday, wending their way from the Valencia street ball yard with the board reading 4-2 against the Howard administration. Can you beat it?

That was some shuffle that "Pa" Mize pulled as a prelude to yesterday's match. Honus must have decided that three full meals were quite enough for the batting Beauties, for he suddenly declined to pay the board bill any longer. "I'll be back," he said, "and I'll be back with the shake-up and set the fans to buzzing along Broadway."

Fifteen batters looks like old times, doesn't it? And makes us wish a shake-up would come every day. Three regulars, Zacher, Schmitz and Conner, were benched by Mize, and their places taken by Jess Becker, Ody Abbott and Art Dueset. The bright particular batting star turned up by Ody Abbott, who pitched himself thoroughly at the bat, battling the melon thrice out of four trials. Abbott, who is a native of the city, is a former champion of the city and has won many titles.

With Zacher out of the batting order, Hoffing was promoted to third place and the number of innings pitched by Zacher was given to Hoffing. Hoffing, who is a native of the city, is a former champion of the city and has won many titles. The match is expected to be a close one, as both boys are well known in the city.

Guest's one error was not a serious one, and Coach's understudy had a good day in the field. You have to hand it to the veterans for giving the best returns on these "hop-around" ads. Bill Mize, who is a native of the city, is a former champion of the city and has won many titles. The match is expected to be a close one, as both boys are well known in the city.

Happy Hogan, they say, is stuck on the winnower. He used yesterday, Koester and Krietz. We liked them, they were good. Just why they Hogan had to substitute Ralph Edmondson in the seventh. The Oaks scored two more of the new arrival before he had time to compose himself.

San Francisco sporting writers seem to be pleased with the showing made yesterday by the Oaks. Just why they should be is difficult to understand, except for the fact that Seal fans are another and more reliable group for small favors. Jess walked seven times safely, and was quite accountable for the low hitting. The Oaks scored two more of the new arrival before he had time to compose himself.

Seated on the players' bench just before the game, Jack Ryan, who later pitched the Oaks to victory, bemoaned the number of injuries registered by Coast League players so far this season. "Hogan had half his team in the hospital after the first week," said Ryan, "and is still nursing crutches in the hospital. Just look at our club. Gill is out of it. Metzger has the hives and Ivan Howard has a sore throat and was spit out of the game. Just look at our club. Gill is out of it. Metzger has the hives and Ivan Howard has a sore throat and was spit out of the game."

When you take into consideration that Anley and Tike, the star battery of the Oaks, are out of the game with broken fingers, and that Zacher has a twisted ankle, Ryan's lamentations find ready echo. Tub Spencer and Del Howard have both been incapacitated by illness, and now Roy Corhan is one the shelf as the third baseman. The Oaks are in a bad way. A ligament in his leg in Thursday's game Wolverton has been the most fortunate manager thus far.

Los Angeles put Page over the jumps in the first inning, assisted by Carter, who hit through the center fielder. Held out. Three more followed in the fifth, when with two down, Ellis and Moore singled and scored on Maggart's double, and Maggart scored on Wottell's single.

Rabbit Mondorf scored the other Seal run by beating out an infield hit, stealing second moving to third on an infield out, and scoring on a double steal pulled with the assistance of Hogan.

Sacramento defeated Portland 7 to 4 yesterday in a closely played game. The Oaks are in a bad way. A ligament in his leg in Thursday's game Wolverton has been the most fortunate manager thus far.

ACADEMY NINE VICTOR OVER ST. ANTHONY'S 22 TO 7

Loose fielding on the part of the St. Anthony's squad, combined with the ability of the St. Joseph Academy batsmen to connect with the ball at opportune moments, resulted in the unflinching baseball game of the Alameda county division of the Catholic Schools Athletic League being won by the latter team by a score of 22 to 7, at Bay View grounds yesterday. The St. Anthony's team won the first game, and it will be necessary to play one more contest before the Alameda division supremacy can be decided. The game will be played Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the Bay View grounds. The 115-pound Alameda class will also be decided the day, when the St. Anthony and St. Joseph's Academy 115-pounders meet. The winners of Wednesday's games will meet the champions of the San Francisco side for the league championship. Yesterday's score follows:

THE SPORTLIGHT ON EVERY FIELD

John Mackey, well known in racing circles and for many years in charge of James E. Haggart's stable of thoroughbreds, succumbed yesterday in Brooklyn to heart disease. Mackey was born in Ireland and was 77 years of age. He spent the greater part of his life in this state.

Over a thousand instructors of physical culture and their pupils participated yesterday in the second annual conference of the Middle West Physical Education and Hygiene Association, at the University of Chicago.

The Oxford and Cambridge Universities of England have been invited to participate in the American Olympic games at Chicago from June 23 to July 6.

Detroit released Pitcher Boehler to the St. Joseph Western League Club yesterday.

It's still a secret. The conference of the big "hins" representatives at Illinois yesterday for the purpose of defining the word "amateur" was held in secret. Well, what do we care?

Boston may be represented in the 1914 American cup races.

Listen. We hate to do this, but we have to. Ty Cobb, who has used more valuable space in newspapers than any other mortal since Ben Franklin's time, is going to be a program. Cobb is going to be a program.

To his, my lady, this evening the "sale" of the new Oakland Yacht Club will gather at Washington Hall, in East Oakland for a big time. It will be a stag affair, and in addition to the usual "club" members there will also be a big "feed". The club will open its season on the water tomorrow.

"It's great to be a victor. Bud Anderson, who recently placed K. C. Brown in the lead at Los Angeles, was promoted to the position of champion of the Century is picked to make the best time.

The indoor rifle championship contest between Warren, Pa., and Cleveland last night was won by the former, 994 to 986.

Ha, ha, and ha, ha, some more. Here's a guy who claims the American heavyweight championship.

ALAMEDA, April 26.—Plans for the formation of an Alameda county or Alameda city league are being held in abeyance until the return from the East of George W. Nalls, manager of the Alamedas. Nalls will be home by the end of the week and will then decide whether to play on a percentage basis at Alameda Recreation Park. The Cycle-Arms nine has been playing at Lincoln Park since the year grounds could be secured, but the park diamond is in such general demand that it can be secured by any one team who is willing to pay for it.

There is a growing agitation to bar out the adult and semi-professional ball teams organized in the Alameda schools and turn the park diamond over to the Alamedas. The diamond is a part of the general playground scheme, and it is argued, the regularly organized teams should be barred out of the park.
